

BEREA PUBLISHING CO.
(INCORPORATED)MARSHALL E. VAUGHN, Editor
JAMES H. REINHARDT, Managing Editor
Entered at the Postoffice at Berea, Ky., as second class mail-matter, under Act of March, 1879.
Published Every Thursday at Berea, Ky.

THE CITIZEN

Devoted to the Interests of the Mountain People

Vol. XXIV.

Five Cents Per Copy

BEREA, MADISON COUNTY, KENTUCKY, AUGUST 31, 1922

One Dollar and Fifty Cents Per Year

No. 9

TRAINMEN MAY FORFEIT
UNION CHARTERUNLESS STRIKERS AT ROOD HOUSE, ILL., RETURN TO WORK, LEE ASSERTSBig Five Brotherhoods To Meet At Cleveland, O., To Discuss the Shop-men's Strike, Locomotive Engineer States—Members Advised Not to Violate Union Laws.

Cleveland, O.—Members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen who walked out on the Chicago and Alton at Floodhouse, Ill., are in danger of losing their charter unless they return to work and remain there until proper strike action is taken, W. O. Lee, President of the organization, declared here. Mr. Lee said he had sent a telegram to officers of Lodge No. 44, at Floodhouse, advising them against the illegal action of the members in violation of the brotherhood constitution, "which of necessity must result in loss of their membership."

The telegram was in reply to one sent by the lodge to Mr. Lee.

Announcement that heads of the "Big Five" brotherhoods would meet here to discuss the shopmen's strike as it affects their organizations, was made by Warren S. Stone, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

"I wired them that if it is true, the strike is contrary to our law," Mr. Lee said. "I told them if they go out illegally I will have to enforce our laws."

"I also advised against any action of the members in violation of the constitution of the brotherhood, which of necessity must result in the loss of their membership."

The trainmen's constitution provides that in cases of grievances the system General Chairman must call a meeting of the Executive Committee for the system. The Executive Committee may vote a strike, which must be sanctioned by the President. Mr. Stone returned from New York, where, with heads of other transportation trades, he was unsuccessful in mediating the shopmen's controversy. When told of reports that engineers had joined the strike at Floodhouse, Mr. Stone said he had not heard of it. Until he received an official report he declined to comment. D. H. Robertson, President of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineemen, also returned from New York, but could not be located.

GRACE GRANTED GERMANY

Allied Officials Invite Teutons To Reappear Before Them—Seek To Avoid Split

Paris.—In a strong desire to reach a unanimous decision on Germany's request for a moratorium, the Reparations Commission found a pretext for further delay by resolving to invite Germany again to be heard before the commission Wednesday. Meanwhile members of the commission will confer in the hope of avoiding a vote which will divide it.

Members of the commission, with Colonel James A. Logan acting as American observer, met. The delegates expressed their views on Germany's request of July 12 for a three years' moratorium. Semi-official declarations later showed that unanimity had not been reached, except on the point that the present uncertainty should not be prolonged and that a decision of the Reparations Commission should be given at the soonest possible moment, if possible. After the meeting a communique was issued to the effect that the commission considers itself not to be in a position to give a decision before the meeting on the request of Germany for a moratorium.

Murgula Leaves Texas.

San Antonio, Texas.—Reports that General Francisco Murgula, former Carranzista leader in the Mexican army, with a band of officers including General Ombilio Aguilar, son-in-law of the late President Venustiano Carranza, had left this city, crossed the Rio Grande at a point below Brownsville and met on the Mexican side a band of more than 500 revolutionaries were confirmed by Senora Murgula at the home of the General in this city.

Confidence Men Held

Denver, Colo.—Police and Colorado State Rangers completed the roundup and arrest of 31 persons alleged to have conducted confidence operations in Colorado, Florida, Cuba, and other tourist centers. Philip Van Use, District Attorney, announced information that led to the arrest of the gang was supplied by J. Frank Norfleet, of Hale Center, Texas, who was a victim. Norfleet, according to Van Use, is the man who unmasked the operations of the notorious Southwest "Joe Perry" band.

UNIONS AND ROADS
PLAN BITTER FIGHTBoth Sides Predict Early Victory —Sympathetic Strike Not Expected.

ALTON FIREMEN WALK OUT

Claim Equipment Is in Dangerous Condition and Demand That Guards
Be Removed From Vicinity of Roundhouses.

New York, Aug. 28.—With the peace effort launched by the "big five" brotherhoods definitely abandoned, rail executives and shopcrafts leaders realigned their forces for a final fight in which both sides predicted an early victory.

In rail employers' circles no doubt as to the outcome was expressed.

"We will break the strike within a week," was the general prediction.

Man Equally Aggressive.

"We are going home to start the real fight, whether it lasts for three weeks or three months," declared W. F. Ryan, president of the Carmen's National brotherhood, as he prepared to leave for Kansas City, to direct activities of his branch of the shop craft.

"Our organizations have plenty of funds to conduct a long fight. And our men are willing to make the sacrifices needed for a decisive victory," he concluded.

B. M. Jewell, head of the strike organization of crafts, was equally positive of the outcome of the battle. Before starting for Chicago to pick up the reins of strike leadership where he dropped them when recent peace parleys began, he issued a statement to his men in which he said:

"We have gone the full limit in the interest of peace. If we must fight we will show that we know how. Now that the issue is again clearly defined and false hopes of an early peace dispelled, the fight must be renewed with increased vigor, and every man must do his full part to bring it to an early and successful conclusion."

Brotherhood Attitude.

The attitude of the brotherhood chiefs whose efforts to promote a settlement proved so futile, was expressed by T. C. Cushman, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America.

"We are not so sorry for the strikers," said he, "as we are for the American public. It is going to be the sufferer more and more as the strike is prolonged."

Others of the "big five" leaders expressed great disappointment over their failure to end hostilities, but renewed assurances that the running trades would refrain from any sympathetic strike, illegal walk out or conspiracy, "as long as the rights of the brotherhoods are not threatened."

Alton Firemen Refuse to Work.

Slater, Mo., Aug. 28.—Chicago & Alton firemen, claiming the equipment was in a dangerous condition and demanding that guards patrol only the district immediately surrounding the roundhouse, refuse to move traffic out of here.

For several days they have been holding meetings to discuss the situation, and it is understood an agreement was reached to cease work unless certain demands were complied with.

The engineers also met, but no strike action was taken.

When train No. 10, from Floodhouse, Ill., attempted to change engines here, no fireman could be found to take the train out. The train was held several hours, and then a nonunion shop worker was pressed into service as a fireman.

The train got only as far as Marshall, 12 miles west, and was finally abandoned.

The "Hummer," fast train for Chicago, was held up until a man was finally obtained to act as fireman. It got only as far as Olin, four miles east of here.

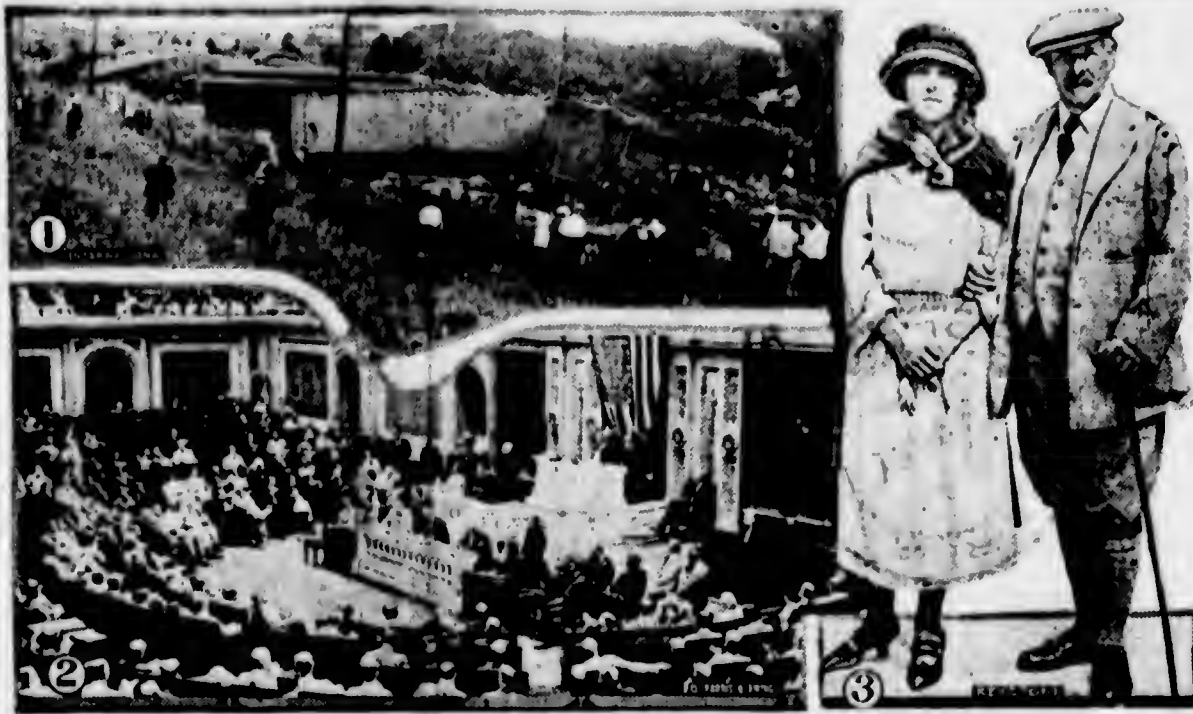

Trouble on Alton.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—The ninth week of the railroad strike began with peace negotiations collapsed. President Harding considering steps to place certain roads and anthracite coal mines under federal control. Train wrecks and further trouble with train crews, notably on the Chicago & Alton.

Walkouts on the Chicago & Alton followed explosions at Floodhouse, Ill., operating crews at Floodhouse and Slater, Mo., refusing to turn a wheel.

Reports concerning the Floodhouse explosions were at variance. Railroad men and residents of the town assert bombs were exploded in the vicinity of the Chicago & Alton round house and a hotel where railroad workers were quartered, while company of federal troops at Bloomington said the explosions were probably caused by the crackers.

Parley Prescriptions.
The agitation is high.
And various life endure.
Still patiently the world doth try
The conversation cure.

1—Scene of wreck of express train at Gary, Ind., which was said to be result of a sabotage plot. 2—President Harding addressing joint session of congress on industrial situation. 3—First photograph to reach this country of George J. Gould and his new wife at Deauville, France.

The County Achievement Contest

(Continued from last week)

AGRICULTURAL AND LIVESTOCK
1,000 PointsI. DEVELOPMENT IN FRUIT GROWING AND GARDEN-ING (300)

1. No. fruit trees set and cared for in county (1 point for every setting of 25 trees up to 45). 45
2. No. of man days devoted to pruning and spraying (1 point for every two man days up to 45). 45
3. No. of orchards growing for the market (5 points for each orchard of 100 or more trees). 30
4. Increase in number of stands of bees (1 point for each man increasing two colonies up to 30). 30
5. No. of gardens following suggested program of planting (1 point for each 5 gardens up to 30 points). 30
6. Amount of money received from garden products (1 point for each man selling $10 worth up to 30 points). 30
7. No. garden exhibits at county and community fairs (1 point for each man exhibiting 15 articles up to 30 points). 30
8. No. gardens covered with winter crops (1-2 point for each man up to 10 points). 30
9. No. home canners put into service (1 point for each water seal canner and 2 points for each steam pressure cooker up to 30 points). 30

Points will be given only on achievements made during period of the contest.

II. DEVELOPMENT IN STOCK RAISING (300)

1. No. of pure bred animals brought into the county (4 hogs, 4 sheep, or 1 cow—1 animal unit), (1 point for each animal unit up to 40). 40
2. No. of pure bred animals produced in the county (1 point for each animal unit up to 40). 40
3. No. of cooperating projects in bringing in pure bred males (8 points each up to 30). 30
4. No. animals shown in county or community fair (2 hogs, 1 sow and litter or 1 cow—1 animal unit), (1 point for each animal unit up to 30). 30
5. No. hogs vaccinated for cholera (1 point for each farm treating). 40
6. No. of cattle vaccinated for black leg, etc., (1 point for each farm treating). 40
7. No. of improved dairies started or standardized (4 points for each). 40
8. No. of improved sheep introduced (4 points for each flock). 40

Points will be given only on achievements made during period of the contest.

III. DEVELOPMENT OF IMPROVED CROPPING AND SOIL IMPROVEMENT (300)

1. No. acres sown in cover crops (1 point for each ten acres up to 50 points). 50
2. No. of half-acre lime demonstrations started (1 point for each up to 50). 50
3. No. of half-acre phosphorus demonstrations started (2 points for each up to 50). 50
4. No. of acres of grass properly sown (1-2 point for each acre up to 50 points). 50
5. No. of acres sown in legumes (1 point for each 5 acres up to 50 points). 50
6. No. of acres of tile drains put in (1 point for each 10 rods up to 50 points). 50
7. No. of acres drained by open ditches (1 point for each 25 rods up to 50 points). 50
8. No. of seed tests made (1 point for each man's crop tested up to 50 points). 50

Points will be given only on achievements made during period of the contest.

IV. PROGRESS IN POULTRY (100)

1. No. of pure bred flocks in county (2 points for each flock of 25). 25
2. No. of members in Poultry Association added during the contest (1 point for each member up to 35). 35
3. No. of eggs produced (1 point for each 20 crates up to 20). 20
4. No. of birds exhibited at fairs (1 point for each 4 birds up to 20). 20

Points will be given only on achievements made during period of the contest.

SCORE CARD FOR JUNIOR CLUB WORK
1,000 Points

- I. ORGANIZATION AND INSTRUCTION (400)
For each meeting held, not to exceed one a month 10 points. 120
For each meeting held, not to exceed one a month. 120
2. Junior Community Clubs, each chartered club organized, 10 points. 100
a. For local club meetings, not to exceed 10 to the club. 2 points. 20

(Continued on Page Two)

World News

Michael Collins is dead. He was head of the army of the Irish Free State. He was assassinated in the street by men who stood for the Republic and who afterwards frankly confessed the crime. This, along with the death of Griffith, has robbed the government of its best men, for Griffith was regarded as the brains of the Free State; so Collins was regarded as its strong right arm.

The great world exposition is to be opened early in September at Rio de Janeiro. Secretary Hughes has sailed for the exposition to assist in the opening of it. This exposition, no doubt, will awaken a greater interest in South America and will attract visitors from all over the world.

A famous rain-maker, Hatfield, by name, who claims to be able to break droughts, is reported to be in Rome, Italy, negotiating with the Pope to break the long drought which has been distressing Italy for many weeks. Fortunately, Kentucky does not need him.

Last week there was strong hope that the hard coal strike was on the eve of being adjusted, but the expected settlement could not be arranged after all, and so the strike still continues.

The railroad strike is unsettled. It is still being held up on the question of seniority. As an illustration of the seriousness, Henry Ford has announced that all his plants must be closed up September 16th on account of inability to get coal transported to his works. This will throw thousands of men out of work on the verge of winter. There is strong sentiment in favor of the government taking over the railroad lines and the hard coal lines in order to handle this emergency. Soft coal production is increasing rapidly now, but the rail strike prevents proper distribution.

PROFESSOR DIES IN SLEEP

William A. Dunning of Columbia University was a Ford Suit Witness.

New York, Aug. 28.—William A. Dunning, Lieber professor of history and political philosophy at Columbia university since 1904, died in his sleep after a long illness. He was sixty-four years old. Professor Dunning was a witness for Henry Ford in his suit against the Chicago Tribune. He wrote several volumes and contributed to magazines.

Eleven Hurt Seriously

Syracuse, N. Y.—Eleven passengers were injured seriously when a trolley car ran wild down the Walnut avenue hill and was wrecked when it left the rails and crashed against telegraph poles, three city blocks distant from the point where the car got beyond control. A number of other passengers were injured slightly. The accident occurred as a severe rain and electrical storm was passing over the city.

KENTUCKY RIFLEMEN DEFEAT
ALL COMERS

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 29.—Kentucky's 149th Infantry outshot all the National Guard regiments in the United States on the range at Camp Knox and the cavalry, the Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth Machine Gun Squadrons are "the best looking National Guard cavalry troops in the country." Col. Charles H. Morrow, U. S. A., said on his return tonight from Camp Henry Knox, voicing, he said, the opinion of the regular army officers present.

For appearance of the cavalry he has the word of Col. Frederick W. Shaw, senior inspector, Fifth Corps Area, Columbus Barracks, Ohio, who expressed his views to Colonel Morrow in those words.

The 149th qualified 29.1 per cent of its personnel as sharpshooters, marksmen or experts, compared to 10 per cent for one Indian regiment of infantry, 9 per cent for another, and 8 per cent for the engineers. Ohio infantrymen did little better.

"Both W. O. Reed, senior cavalry instructor, and I were greatly pleased with the work and showing of the Kentucky guardsmen," Colonel Morrow said.

To hear some folks cuss the world you'd think it was as bad as if they themselves had made it.

Even a lazy man is energetic at quitting time.

THE STATE FAIR

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 30

Louisville will be a city of reunions during State Fair week, September 11 to 16, according to plans which have been announced by the Young Business Men's League which has made plans to help those who have separated to "get together" hear again.

The week has been designated as "Home Coming and Reunion Week" by the members of the league, which plans to hold reunions of all kinds. Among the most interesting of the reunions to Kentuckians are to be those of former State Administrations and legislatures. These are to be held September 14th, "Governor's Day."

The administrations of Governor Edwin P. Morrow, Governor Stanley, Governor McCreary, Governor Wilson, Governor Beckham and of Governor Bradley are to be represented. Where the Chief Executive of the administration is living, he has been named chairman of the reunion of officials, as have the living Lieutenant-Governors and Speakers of the House of Representatives, of the reunions of their houses. A. J. Carroll has been named chairman for those of administrations prior to 1896. Ranking members of the Legislature and of the various administrations have been selected in cases where the Governor, Lieutenant-Governors and Speakers are dead.

Military reunions of units which have represented Kentucky in the Mexican War, the Civil War, the Spanish-American and the World Wars, are also to be held, and booths at the State Fair grounds are to be maintained for each war and each distinctly Kentucky unit.

Reunions of families and of colleges are included in the plans of the league, as well as the designation of various days as "section reunion days," one for Southern, one for Western, one for Central and another for Eastern Kentucky.

MUNCY IS NAMED MADISON
CORONER

E. H. Muncy has been appointed Coroner of Madison county by County Judge John D. Goodloe to succeed the late W. N. Kinser. Mr. Muncy served in this position some time ago, during which he showed his capability as Coroner. Mr. Muncy's friends are sure that he will show he is efficient in the position. Richmond Register.

RING WAS REMINDER OF ENGAGEMENT
(New York Sun)

"A ring is a circular instrument placed upon the noses of hogs and the fingers of women to restrain them and bring them to subjection."

"What is that noise?" the good wife asked.

In sudden terror quacking; Her husband soothed her: "Do not fear,

'Tis but the dawn a-breaking;" "Alas, alas," the wife cried out.

"That hired girl needs a thumping. She'll have us out of house and home. She's always dropping something."

We are reminded that there is still another advantage in going without a coat or vest in hot weather. We don't have to carry so many things around in our pockets.

The strongest of hands are without value unless there is a brain capable of directing their movements.

ACHIEVEMENT CONTEST

(Continued from page 1)

- b. For each member enrolled between August 1, 1922 and December 31, 1923, 1-4 point. 25
- c. For each member attending meeting, 1-8th point. 25
- d. For each member finishing work in 1922-23—1 point. 50
- e. For each merit course completed, 1922-23—1 point. 35
- II. SPECIAL ACTIVITIES (400)
1. Junior club camp in which county is represented. 16
 - For each member attending camp, 1-8th point. 16
 2. Each club picnic or play day held, 4 points. 16
 - For each member attending, 1-8th point. 16
 3. Club inspection tour, 4 points. 16
 - For each club member on tour, 1-2 point. 16
 4. County Club exhibit. 16
 - For each member exhibiting, 1-4th point. 16
 5. For each community exhibit for club members, 4 points. 16
 - For each member exhibiting, 1-4th point. 16
 6. County judging contest. 16
 - For each club member in contest, 1 point. 16
 7. County Demonstration Team Contest, 1 point. 16
 - For each club member in contest, 1 point. 16
 8. For each community judging or Demonstration Team contest, 4 points. 16
 - For each club member in contest, 1-2 point. 16
 9. Judging team sent to State Fair. 36
 10. Demonstration Team sent to University at Junior Week. 36
 11. Representatives sent to Junior Week, 2 points each. 36
 12. Achievement Day program for each community, 2 points each. 36
- III. FINANCING CLUB WORK (200)
1. Money given as premium at county and community exhibits, 1-4th point per $75
 2. Money loaned to club members to purchase livestock, seed or supplies, 1-8th point per $75
 3. Money contributed to furnish free trips, 2 points per $50

ROADS AND PUBLIC BUILDINGS
1,000 Points

- I. BONDS VOTED (400)
- Two points for each one thousand dollars.
- II. TAXES OR BOND MONEY USED (200)
- For roads and road equipment or under bona fide contract, 5 points for each one thousand dollars.
- III. COOPERATIVE ROAD BUILDING PROJECT (200)
- 100 points for 100 men or teams for three days or the same ratio. In any case the service must be for at least three days for each man.
- IV. MONEY SPENT FOR PUBLIC BUILDINGS (200)
- (Building and repairs), 5 points for each one thousand dollars.
- No credit will be given for bonds voted or contracts let prior to August 1, 1922. But any incomplete work will receive credit for amount done after opening of contest and before December 31, 1923. It is the ambition of the promoters of the contest that a trans-county highway may be built in every county entering the campaign.

NEWSPAPER AND MAGAZINE CIRCULATION

500 Points (Score 0 at beginning)

- I. INCREASE IN CIRCULATION OF DAILIES 100
1. One point for each five subscribers, or regular papers sold by delivery.
- II. INCREASE IN CIRCULATION OF WEEKLIES 150
1. Four points for each ten new subscribers.
- III. INCREASE IN CIRCULATION OF RELIGIOUS JOURNALS 100
1. One point for each new subscriber.
- IV. INCREASE IN CIRCULATION OF AGRICULTURAL JOURNALS 100
1. One point for each new subscriber.
- V. INCREASE IN CIRCULATION OF SCHOOL JOURNALS 50
1. One point for each two new subscribers.
- The county editors are to become the committees for newspaper

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTSSeniority Again Blocks Efforts to Settle the Railway Shopmen's Strike.

BERT JEWELL NOT HOPEFUL

Illinois Miners Resume Work and Profiteers Boost Prices—House Passes Coal Commission Bill—Senate Acts Swiftly on Soldiers' Bonus—Slaying of Michael Collins.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

SENIORITY rights were still blocking a settlement of the railway shopmen's strike as last week drew to a close, and though peace efforts were continued, their success was more than problematical in view of the uncompromising stand of both sides on the chief point in dispute. On Wednesday the Association of Railway Executives, by a vote of 254 to 4, rejected the proposal of the chiefs of the brotherhoods, acting as mediators, that the strikers be reinstated with seniority unimpaired. The brotherhood leaders, after conferring with heads of other rail unions, suggested the possibility of separate agreements with the railroads, and the executives said they would test the sincerity of this proposal, but with the distinct understanding that any individual settlement would have to conform to the understanding of seniority reached at the general session of the executives. Most of the railroads also refuse to agree to take back all of the strikers, as consistently demanded by the union.

Bert M. Jewell, spokesman for the strikers, was pessimistic as to any circulation. Any special, legitimate inducement that the local paper or any recognized dailies may make to increase the circulation is permissible under the rules of this contest.

The Church and Agricultural leaders are to be called upon by the Committee to bring to the attention of the people good religious and farm journals. The great aim is to increase wholesome reading among the people.

COOPERATION IN CONTEST

(Score 0 at beginning)

1,000 Points

- I. COOPERATION (1,000)
1. Organization on first visit according to plan in Regulation 2, each department, 25 points. 200
 2. Attendance at committee meetings called by authorized Berea representative who visits county, proportional to number on committee (each meeting 20 points). 200
 3. Complete list of all committees with names and addresses of all their members furnished the Superintendent of Berea College Extension Department within a week after appointment, percentage basis. 100
 4. Attendance on public meetings when Berea worker or one sent by Berea Extension Department is present (10 points for each 100 persons present). 100
 5. Satisfactory arrangements for transportation and entertainment of workers sent by Berea College Extension (10 points for each person each trip after they arrive in the field). 100
 6. There shall be an expense budget or a contingent fund raised or appropriated to meet necessary expenses. $100 is recommended. (1 point for each $1.00). 100

ful settlement. He issued a statement saying:

"The association of railway executives has closed the door. The union have offered every concession within reason to end the strike and to save the public from a breakdown of transportation, but the association has made none. On the contrary it has, since the strike began, raised an entirely new and irrelevant issue of its own—seniority; and by its refusal to recede from its position has made a settlement impossible at this time. The responsibility for what will happen now rests wholly upon it."

"The shop craft employees voted in June for a strike to establish a living wage and decent working conditions. The association of railway executives have now voted for a lockout to smother unionism on the railroads and to eliminate collective bargaining from the industry."

"The 400,000 striking employees accept the challenge of the association. We redouble our efforts, confident of success."

FROM the American Federation of Labor came an appeal to its four million members to give their moral and financial support to the striking shopmen. It attributes to "the small but powerful group of bankers who control the finances of the railroads" the adoption of a policy by the railroads of "bitter antagonism to the organizations of the workers," reasserting what many unprejudiced persons believe, namely, that there is a deliberate plan to destroy the unions.

Most of the sporadic strikes of brotherhood men soon came to an end, but last week the Southern railroad was badly tied up by walkouts of train and engine men. The situation became so serious that the superintendent of mails in the southern district planned to handle mails by motortruck service, with the possibility of calling on the army to handle and protect the trucks.

Secretary of War Weeks said he did not believe the administration would make further attempts to act

Three Houses for Sale

I have three modern five-room bungalows in Berea, with old fashioned fireplace, two large closets, front and back porches and pantry, which I am anxious to sell. Call on address

D. S. HENRY

Paris Kentucky

Or W. F. BROWN, Berea, Kentucky on the ground, who will show you.

Berea College Hospital

Best Equipment and Service at Lowest Cost. Wards for Men and for Women Sun-Parlor, Private Rooms, Bath, Electric Service.

Surgery, Care in Child-birth, Eye, Nose and Ear GENERAL PRACTICE

Come in and visit an establishment, which is a friend in need, and in reach of all the people.

ROBERT H. COWLEY, M.D., Physician
HARLAN DUDLEY, M.D., Physician
PEARL H. HOOVER, M.D., Physician
MISS ELIZABETH L. LEWIS, R.N., Superintendent
MISS LAILA ROBINSON, R.N., Head Nurse

CHANGE IN RATES

Rates for board and room of private patients will be $15 to $25 per week; $2.50 to $4.00 per day. The rates for patients cared for in the wards $1.50 per day.

By Order of Prudential Committee, Berea College

the railway strike, and added: "The government is not going to permit transportation service to break down."

COAL miners and operators of Illinois reached an agreement on the issue of that adopted at Cleveland, the men winning all their contentions. Production was resumed at once, but in that state as elsewhere, and as was to be expected, the profiteers also resumed and prices began to climb, to the dismay of the consumers. From various sources protests against this reached the authorities in Washington. Congress, having been urged to action by President Harding, showed it was alive to the situation. The house took up the administration bill for a coal commission reported from the committee on interstate and foreign commerce and speedily passed it, only reducing the salaries of the commissioners from $10,000 to $7,500 and the appropriation for its expenses from $500,000 to $300,000. In accordance with the desire of the President, the bill prohibits the appointment of any operator or miner as a member. In the senate a similar bill introduced by Senator Borah was passed, and the two measures went to conference for adjustment of the small differences.

Negotiations for the settlement of the anthracite strike were broken off, their failure seeming to be complete. Official statements indicated that the duration of a contract and the submission to arbitration of any differences were the stumbling blocks that could not be overcome by the negotiators. Representatives of the mine workers insisted upon a contract at the old wage rate, to extend to April 1, 1924, while the operators would not agree to a continuation of the old scale longer than next April. The miners maintained their stand against arbitration.

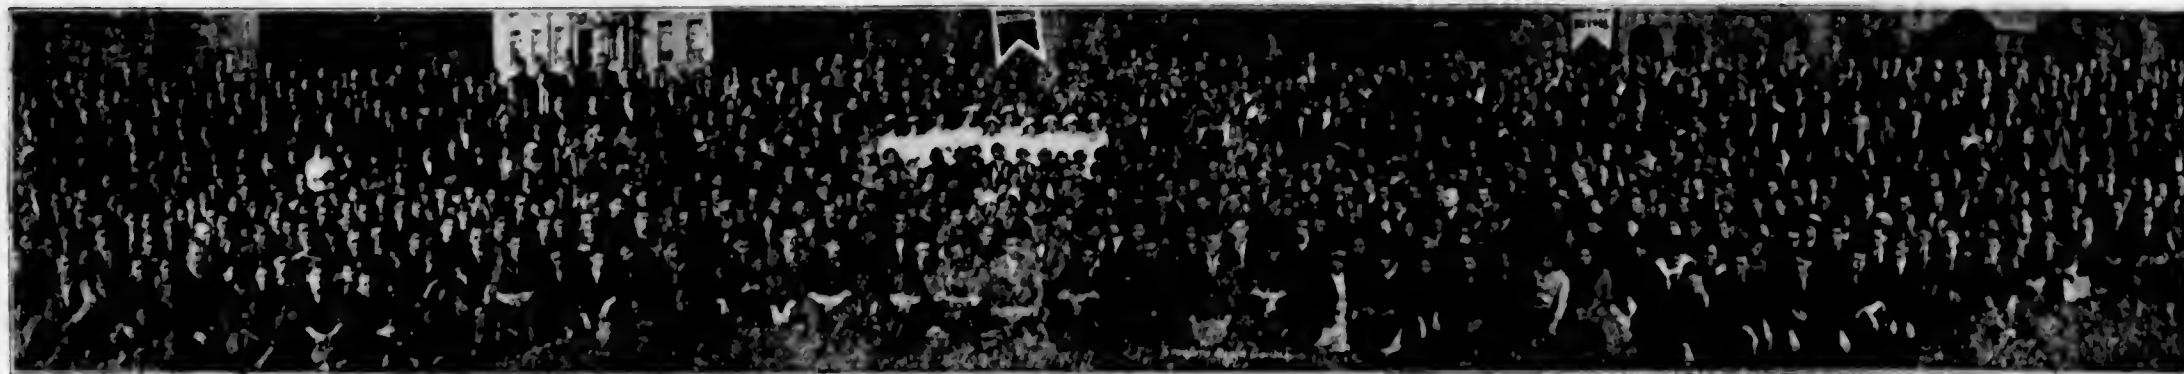

JOHN SHANK, secretary of the trades and labor assembly of Sioux City, Ia., is authority for the statement that plans are maturing for a general nationwide strike of organized labor. He says various union organizations have called on the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor to call such a strike. Probably this need not be feared while the more conservative element remains in control of the union. However, the activities of the Reds and radicals are increasing. Last week those chronic disturbers held a rather secret conference in Berea county, Michigan. Federal and state agents of justice watched them a few days and then made a raid. The radicals had been warned, however, and only 17 were caught. William Z. Foster, one of their leaders, was arrested in Chicago. Much Red propaganda was seized and the officers said they had broken up a large plot to convert violence in connection with the railroad strike. Michigan's syndicalism law, which has never before been used, was invoked against the prisoners. It was said that radicals would be arrested, among them Ross Fisher Stokes. According to the radicals the propaganda seized in Michigan had had plans for converting the operation of the government and the establishment of a soviet regime.

SENATORS who are opposed to the soldiers' bonus seemed to have given up hope last week, or else they merely were in a hurry to get through with the bill and a home. Anyhow, they were so sure that the senate broke its speed records in adopting the finance committee amendments and voting up a continuation of anti-

(Continued on Page Seven)

BEREA COLLEGE OPENS SEPTEMBER 20

An Institution with a Changeless Task in Times of Change

Suitable Courses to Meet All Needs

COLLEGE (Standard)
NORMAL (Standard)
ACADEMY (Accredited)
VOCATIONAL (Professional)
FOUNDATION (Grades)

SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS: Religion, Music and Extension Lectures

Berea College, Berea, Kentucky, is located on the border between the mountains and the Blue Grass. Has 140 able officers and instructors, draws to its campus 2500 students every year, a large number from every mountain state and a few from foreign countries.

The natural cost of living is low in this section, and good management gives a student the best education for ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS A YEAR.

The College, controlled by no religious denomination, cooperates with all and provides religious exercises and education. Tobacco, liquor and the carrying of weapons are strictly forbidden. All students do some manual labor, for which they receive credit on their school bills.

Students are not invited who do not believe in Berea's principles.

EXPENSES

Cheaper than Staying at Home

Berea's friends have made it possible to provide an education at a low cost. All students do some manual labor which is credited to their school bills, while many earn much of their way. These low expenses are not secured by unworthy deprivations, but students live comfortably at these rates. Half day school for those who bring least money. All applicants must make room reservations in advance by a deposit of four dollars.

FALL TERM

	SEEN WOMEN
Incidental Fee for Term	$6.00 $6.00
Room (and Board for 7 weeks)	27.05 25.30
Amount due first of term	33.05 31.30
Board, 6 weeks, due middle of term	16.50 15.00
Total for Term	$49.55 $46.30

NOTE—College Students add $1.00 a term to incidental fee; Vocational and Foundation students subtract $1.00 a term from incidental fee.

Erskine Dale Pioneer

by John Fox, Jr.

Illustrated by R.H. Livingstone

Copyright by Charles Scribner's Sons

CHAPTER I.—To the Kentucky wilderness outpost commanded by Jerome Sanders, in the time immediately preceding the Revolution, comes a white boy fleeing from a tribe of Shawnees by whom he had been captured and adopted as a son of the chief, Kahloot. He is given shelter and sustenance in the favorable attention of Dave Vandell, a leader among the settlers.

CHAPTER II.—The boy wears his new friends of the coming of a Shawnee war party. The fort is attacked, and only saved by the timely appearance of a party of Virginians. The leader of these is fatally wounded, but in his dying moments recognizes the fugitive youth as his son.

CHAPTER III.—At Red Oaks, plantation on the James river, Virginia, Colonel Dale's home, the boy appears with a message for the colonel, who after reading it introduces the bearer to his daughter, Barbara, an heiress cousin, Erskine Dale.

CHAPTER IV.—Erskine meets two other cousins, Harry Dale and Hugh Willoughby.

CHAPTER V.—Daring rapine on a wall at Red Oaks attracts Erskine's attention. He takes his first fencing lesson from Hugh Dale, a Vanderbilt, at Williamsburg on business, visits Red Oaks.

CHAPTER VI.—At the county fair at Williamsburg Erskine meets a youth, Dane Grey, and there at once arises a distinct antagonism between them. Grey, in liquor, insults Erskine, and the latter, for the moment all Indian, draws his knife. Vandell disarms him. Ashamed of his conduct in the affair with Grey, Erskine leaves Red Oaks that night, to return to the wilderness. Vandell, with Harry and Hugh, who have been permitted to visit the Sanders fort, overtake him. At the plantation the boy had left a note in which he gave the property, which is his as the son of Colonel Dale's older brother, to Barbara.

CHAPTER VII.—The party is met by three Shawnees who bring news that Erskine (whose Indian name is White Arrow) has his foster father, Kahloot, is dying, and desires him to come to the tribe and become its chief. After a brief visit to the fort Erskine goes to the tribe. He finds there a white woman and her half-breed daughter, Early Morn, and saves the woman from death. He tells Kahloot he is with the Americans against the British. An enemy, Crooked Lightning, overhears him.

CHAPTER VIII.—Kahloot sends Erskine to a council where British envoys meet Indian chiefs. Dane Grey is there, and the bitter feeling is intensified. Crooked Lightning denounces Erskine as a traitor and friend of the Americans. The youth escapes death by flight.

CHAPTER IX.—Reaching his tribe, Erskine finds his enemies have the upper hand. He is held as a prisoner, waiting only for the arrival of Crooked Lightning, to be turned at the stake. Early Morn releases him and he reaches Jerome Sanders' fort safely.

CHAPTER X.—The Revolution spreads. George Rogers Clark visits the fort. Erskine resolves to join Clark's expedition to the Northwest. At Red Oaks he finds Dane Grey apparently on more than friendly terms with Barbara.

"Why have I changed so much?" he cried. "Hugh didn't seem to know me, either." His voice was gay, friendly, even affectionate, but his eyes danced with strange lights that puzzled the girl.

"Of course I knew you," she faltered, paling a little, but gathering herself rather laughingly—a fact that Erskine seemed not to notice. "You took me by surprise and you have changed—but I didn't know how much." The significance of this too seemed to pass Erskine by, for he bent over Barbara's hand and kissed it.

"Never to you, my dear cousin," he said gallantly, and then he bowed to

"Never to you, My Dear Cousin."

Dane Grey, not offering to shake hands. "Of course I know Mr. Grey." To say that the gentleman was dumfounded is to put it mildly—this wild Indian playing the courtier with exquisite impudence and doing it well! Harry seemed like to burst with restrained merriment, and Barbara was sorely put to it to keep her poise. The great dinner bell from behind the house boomed its summons to the woods and fields.

"It seems you have been amusing yourself with my kinspeople at my expense." Grey drew himself up in his dignity. Erskine went on:

"I have known some hard who were not cowards."

"You forget yourself."

"No—not you."

"You remember a promise I made you once?"

"Twice," corrected Erskine. Grey's eyes flashed upward to the crossed rapiers on the wall.

"Precisely," answered Erskine, "and when?"

"At the first opportunity."

"From this moment I shall be waiting for nothing else."

Barbara, reappearing, heard their last words, and she came forward pale and with pleading eyes.

"Cousin Erskine, I want to apologize to you for my little faith. I hope you will forgive me. Mr. Grey, your horse will be at the door at once. I wish you a safe journey—to your command."

Grey bowed and turned—furious.

Erskine was on the porch when Grey came out to mount his horse.

"You will want seconds?" asked Grey.

"They might try to stop us—no!"

"I shall ride slowly," Grey said. Erskine bowed.

"I shall not."

Nor did he. Within half an hour Barbara, passing through the hall, saw that the rapiers were gone from the wall and she stopped, with the color fled from her face and her hand on her heart. At that moment Ephraim dashed from the kitchen.

"Miss Barbara, somebody's wine to get killed. I was wukkin' in de ole field an' Marse Grey rid by cussin' to himself. Jist now Marse Erskine went tearin' by de landin' wid a couple o' swords under his arm."

His eyes too went to the wall. "Yes, bless Gawd, dey's gone!" Barbara flew out the door.

In a few moments she had found Harry and Hugh. Even while their horses were being saddled her father rode up.

"It's murder," cried Harry, "and Grey knows it. Erskine knows nothing about a rapier."

Without a word Colonel Dale wheeled his tired horse and soon Harry and Hugh dashed after him. Barbara walked back to the house, wringing her hands, but on the porch she sat quietly in the agony of waiting that was the role of women in those days.

Meanwhile, at a swift gallop Firefly was skimming along the river road. Grey had kept his word and more; he had not only ridden slowly but he had stopped and was waiting at an oak tree that was a cornerstone between two plantations.

"That I may not kill you on your own land," he said.

Erskine stared. "The consideration is deeper than you know."

They hitched their horses, and Erskine followed into a pleasant glade—a grassy glade through which murmured a little stream. Erskine dropped the rapier on the sword.

"Take your choice," he said.

"There is none," said Grey, picking up the one nearer to him. "I know them both." Grey took off his coat while Erskine waited. Grey made the usual moves of courtesy and still Erskine waited, wondering, with the point of the rapier on the ground.

"When you are ready," he said, "will you please let me know?"

"Ready?" answered Grey, and he lunged forward. Erskine merely whirled at his blade so that the clang of it whined on the air to the breaking-point and sprang backward. He was as quick as an eyelash and lithe as a panther, and yet they almost laughed aloud. All Erskine did was to whip the thrusting blade aside and leap out of danger like a flash of light. It was like an inept fencer's defiance according to rules unknown—and Grey's face flamed and actually turned anxious. Then, as a kindly fate would have it, Erskine's blade caught in Grey's guard by accident, and the powerful wrist behind it seeking merely to wrench the weapon loose tore Grey's rapier from his grasp and buried it ten feet away. There is no greater humiliation for the expert swordsman, and not for nothing had Erskine suffered the shame of that long-ago day when a primitive instinct had led him to thrusting his knife into this same enemy's breast. Now, with his sword's point on the earth, he waited courteously for Grey to recover his weapon.

Again a kindly fate intervened. Even as Grey rushed for his sword, Erskine heard the beat of horses' hoofs. As he snatched it from the ground and turned, with a wicked smile over his grinding teeth, came Harry's shout, and as he rushed for Erskine, Colonel Dale swung from his horse. The sword blades clashed. Erskine whipping back and forth in a way to make a swordsman groan—and Colonel Dale had Erskine by the wrist and was between them.

"How dare you, sir?" cried Grey hotly.

"Just a moment, young gentleman," said Colonel Dale calmly.

"Let us alone, Uncle Harry—I—"

"Just a moment," repeated the colonel sternly. "Mr. Grey, do you think it quite fair that you with your skill should fight a man who knows nothing about fells?"

"There was no other way," Grey said sullenly.

"And you could not wait, I presume?" Grey did not answer.

"Now, hear what I have to say, and if you both do not agree, the matter will be arranged to your entire satisfaction. Mr. Grey, I have but one question to ask. Your country is at war. She needs every man for her

The Sword-Blades Clashed, Erskine Whipping Back and Forth in a Way to Make a Swordsman Groan.

The sun was close to the uneven sweep of the wilderness. Through its slanting rays the river poured like a flood of gold. The negroes were on the way singing from the fields. Cries, clanking, and the musical clanking of trace-chains came from the barnyard. Hungry cattle were moaning and full-throated mothers were moaning answers to howling calves. A peacock screamed from a distant tree and sailed forth, full-spread—a great gleaming winged jewel of the air. In crises the nerves tighten like violin strings, the memory pictures turn abnormally sensitive—and Erskine was not to forget that hour.

The house was still and not a soul was in sight—no three, still silent, walked up the great path. When they were near the portico Harry came out. He looked worried and anxious.

"Where's Barbara?" asked her father.

"Locked in her room."

"Let her alone," said Colonel Dale gently. Like brother and cousin, Harry and Hugh were merely irritated by the late revelation, but the father was shocked that his child was no longer a child. Erskine remembered the girl as she waited for Grey's coming at the sundial, her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Erskine, with a word of apology, went to his room, and Colonel Dale sat down on the porch alone.

As the dusk gathered, Erskine, looking gloomily through his window, saw the girl flutter like a white moth past the box-hedge and down the path. A moment later he saw the tall form of Colonel Dale follow her—and both passed from sight. On the thick turf the colonel's feet too were noiseless, and when Barbara stopped at the sundial her face as she walked with him up the path. For a moment the two boys stood in moody silence. Harry took the rapier in his hand and put them in their place on the wall. Hugh quietly disappeared. Er

DR. J. E. ANDERSONOffice in Berea Bank & Trust Co.
Building

Berea, Ky.

Office Phone 217 Res. Phone 174

Notary Public

Phone No. 49

W. B. WALDEN

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

Berea National Bank Building

Practice
in all Courts

BEREA, KY.

DR. LOGSDON

DENTIST

Office hours 8-12 a. m., 1-4 p. m.

Government Dentist

Located in BAKER BUILDINGMain Street Berea, Ky.
Phone No. 3Dr. J. C. Gabbard

DENTIST

Office in Berea Bank & Trust
Co. Bldg., over the Bank

Hours

8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Daily
Phone 145J. F. CLEMMER

PLUMBER

Phone 83

Berea, Ky.

List Your Property FOR SALE

with

Scruggs, Welch & Gay
REAL ESTATE AGENTS
Berea, KentuckyF. L. MOORE'S*Jewelry Store

FOR

First Class Repairing

AND

Fine Line of Jewelry

CENTER ST. BEREA, KY

Practice Makes Perfect."I've been in the penitentiary 20 years, mum. What good would it do me to get out?"

"You could begin life over again,"

said the sympathetic prison visitor.

"Could a piano player quit tinkling the ivories for 20 years and begin right where he left off, mum?"

"I suppose not."

"Neither could a burglar."

The Economy BoosterWe want you to come to the Economy Store. You will see the many items we carry in stock. Prices right. You will agree with us that when your goods are delivered they cost more—you may not know it—you pay the freight.We will sell you today:

12½ lbs. best Cane Sugar	1.00
Kerosene Oil, per gallon	.14
Fine Table Meal, per sack	.50
Zaring's Patent, Gold Dust, Mary, Pioneer Flour, per sack	1.10
per 100 lbs.	4.30
Lexington Maid is just a little better Try it, per sack	1.15
per 100 lbs.	4.50
Good Scratch Feed, per sack	2.50
A good grey enamel 14 qt. Dish Pan	.50
A good aluminum Teakettle	$1.50
Partridge Lard, per lb.	.17
There is no better.
Gault House Coffee, per lb.	.40
It is steel cut.
Calumet Baking Powder with cook book, per can	.30
Two cans for	.55
Economy Blend Coffee (the quality will please you), per lb.	.35
Three lbs. for	1.00

A house full of dependable merchandise at real economy prices. We need the cash.THE ECONOMY STORE

Chestnut St. Berea, Ky.

Local PageNews of Berea and Vicinity, Gathered from a Variety of Sources.Dr. Russell J. Pirkey, pastor of the Broadway Baptist Church, Louisville, met with his family and a party of friends over to Berea for a short visit with Berea friends recently.Miss Mary A. Clagett, a missionary from Japan, who has been visiting her niece, Mrs. Robert Spence, left Monday for Louisville. She expects to return to Japan in February.Miss Bertha King, of Harboursville, Ky., is spending a few days with Mr.
and Mrs. Robert F. Spence. Miss King, who is well known in Berea, spent the summer in Columbia University.Wm. Birchfield, a student here for several years, who has been in Michigan for the last few years, is visiting friends in town and stopping at the Ernberg home.Axel Ernberg is home for a short visit.Prof. J. R. Robertson left Wednesday evening for Chicago, where he expects to meet Mrs. Robertson, who has been spending several months with her people in Oregon. They will visit in the vicinity of Rockford, Ill., where Professor Robertson lived as a young man, and will return to Berea in time for the opening of school.The local boys who spent two weeks at Camp Knox returned early in the week, enthusiastic over the training they received there and the good time they had. Among the number were John Vaughn, Bradley Carrier, Ray Chrisman, Thomas Jackson, Walter McCreary, Clarence Mc-Kinney, Louie Feese, Robert Spicer, Hugh Isaacs, Herman Cornett, Harris Christopher and Everett Hibbard.
All have returned home but John Vaughn, who had to remain for a few days' work in a canteen.Mrs. Sallie Burdette is slowly improving in health and was able to be taken from the Robinson Hospital to the home of J. M. Kinnard the first of the week.Miss Ruth Hoskins returned Wednesday from Carlisle, where she has been spending several weeks with her uncle and aunt.Mrs. Spink and Mrs. Mann and children were guests of Mrs. R. H.
Embree in Richmond Wednesday.Dr. Raymond and family are back again from their summer vacation at Lake Chautauque, N. Y. They left there Friday night for Berea, spending Saturday and Sunday at Eric, Pa., with Mrs. Raymond's sister-in-law. Monday they came 286 miles, to Alton, O. They left there Tuesday at 6:30 a. m., arriving at Berea 7:30 p. m. same day, covering 260 miles.Dr. Raine and family are back, after an extended vacation. They drove thru from Dayton in a car. They are now living on their old homestead farm near Berea. Berea extends a hearty welcome to all returning workers.Secretary and Mrs. Vaughn left Wednesday for Middletown, Ohio, where they are to act as judges in the annual fair which has been promoted during the last few years by Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Gabbard, in connection with the splendid work which they are doing there.BASEBALL RESULTSJohnson Park, Aug. 27.—Hustlers defeated the Lexington Regulars here today easy. The Hustlers were riding the old apple good and strong.
"Bud" Harrison got the longest hits of the game, hitting a two-bagger and a tripple to deep center. The Lexington boys put up a very poor game. Only one error, which was made by Holland, was chalked against the local boys the entire game.Hickam did the slab work for the locals in the best of form, allowing but two hits, in the first inning, the entire game.

Final score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Lex. Reg.	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0
Hustlers	1	1	3	2	0	5	2	x	14

Umpires: Lewis and Duerson. Attendance, 200. Time: 2 hours.Results of Other GamesSaturday, August 26, Paint Lick 13, Lexington Blue Grass League Team 4.Next Games ScheduledHustlers will probably meet the fast Dixie Ice Cream team from Lexington next Sunday at Johnson Park.
The Dixie team has a reputation of having a fast club, and our boys will have to play some real ball to take their measure.Blue Lick will play Union City at Johnson Park Saturday, September
2nd. Game called at 3 p. m.WEST END AND VICINITYD. N. Welch left Monday for a trip thru Eastern Kentucky.Jesse Kinnard, who has been away for some time has returned home.Mrs. Henry Randerweck and Mrs.
Wm. Miller, of Cincinnati, are visiting their sister, Mrs. Leon Lewis.Sam Welch, who is working at Wi-rona Lake, writes home that he has been sick but is now well and enjoying his work.Miss Frances Gardner is visiting in West Liberty this week.Noah Anglin, of Indianapolis, is visiting relatives here.Friends of Mrs. D. N. Welch will be glad to hear that she is recovering from the effects of an injured foot.Mason Anglin, of Disputanta, Ky., visited his daughter, Mrs. W. T.
Lutes, the first of the week.Word has been received that Mrs.
Nannie Brannaman, who lived many years in Berea, is seriously ill.Mr. and Mrs. James and daughter Helen, are visiting this week in Carlisle.Mr. and Mrs. Jones were in Park-ville, Sunday.Bovd Williams, of Harlan, was at the Polly's the first of the week.The pie supper at West End on Saturday night was a success. The proceeds were for the benefit of the New Christian Church.Mr. and Mrs. Will McDaniel, of Lexington, plan to spend the next two months in Berea. Their friends are glad to have them here again.D. C. Alcorn, of Drip Rock, visited his sister, Mrs. D. F. Parsons, Saturday and Sunday.Mrs. Emil Price, of Shawhan, (formerly Miss Sarah Alcorn) visited here last week.Mrs. Nash is suffering with an attack of rheumatism.West Union Sunday-school was organized last Sunday with J. B. Kilbourne and James Barnett superintendent and assistant, and Mrs. Will Parks and Mrs. Sam Lunsford teachers of the children's classes.Mr. and Mrs. John Fowler entertained the young people last Tuesday night by giving them an apple-peeling.The Parrotts and Swinfords visited Raleigh Davis of Scaffold Cane Sunday.Wilmer Durell Easley, who was graduated from the Academy with the class of 1922 and was a prominent member of the champion interscholastic track team, is located at Chico, Calif., where he is employed by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company as an electrician.Virgie Reynolds and Miss Flora Cantrell, of Manse, were the weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. S. C.
Lewis.THE UNION CHURCHPreaching next Sunday morning by Prof. Jas. W. Raine. At night three laymen will speak, and special music has been provided.The prayer meeting Thursday night at 7:30 will be led by B. W.
Hart.Plans are well under way for the dedication of the new Union Church, September 17th. The dedicatory service will take place on Sunday morning at 10:30. There will also be interesting exercises Sunday afternoon and evening. Monday night will be given over to a great Community Social.It is the desire of the church to make the occasion one in which the whole community may participate.Further details of the exercises will be published next week.COLORED NOTESMrs. Harris and sister, of Dayton, O., were in Berea Sunday visiting Job P. Campbell.The colored boys of Berea will give a picnic at the fair grounds, Monday, September 4th. Running race, three-legged race, potato race, etc. Prizes will be given to the winners. Admission, adults, 25 cents, 15 cents for children. Everybody welcome.The camp meeting is now going on at the Colored A. M. E. Church.
Rev. A. W. Jackson is preaching.
Come and hear him.Mrs. Elsie Moran was the guest of Mrs. Elizabeth Reid Sunday afternoon.Mrs. Harriett Beasley is visiting her sister, Mrs. Julia Walker, this week.
Mrs. Bettie Blythe is visiting her sister-in-law, Mrs. Collins, of Bob-town.Miss Mary Hatter Monday is on the sick list this week.Clark Miller, of Farristown, is on the sick list this week.Mrs. Lucy Miller's grandchildren are in Berea visiting relatives and friends.Several boys and girls of Berea motored to Richmond to a ball game Sunday afternoon.Mr. and Mrs. Gasset's niece and child are visiting this week.Mrs. Josie Merritt was the guest of Mrs. William Burnam, Sunday.SANITARY ORDINANCEPassed May 8, 1922, by the City Council of Berea and Approved
By the Kentucky State Board of HealthNow In EffectOrdinance Governing Buildings for Residential or Business Purposes Adequate Toilet Facilities to be ProvidedIt shall be unlawful for the owner or agent of any premises or real estate within the city of Berea, Kentucky, upon which a building is situated, and where no system of sewage disposal approved by the State and County Boards of Health is provided or maintained to either let, lease, or permit the same to be occupied for residence purposes, or for business or other purposes, which necessitates the occupation of such building or premises by human beings, unless every such building or premises shall be provided with adequate privy or water-closet equipment, constructed, equipped and maintained in a manner satisfactory to the State Board of Health.Every dwelling or other structure within the city of Berea, Ky., which is not provided with a lawful privy or closet is hereby declared to be in-sanitary and dangerous to the public health when occupied and it shall be the duty of the county health officer to post or cause to be posted in a conspicuous place upon dwelling or structure, whether it be occupied or unoccupied, a notice giving warning to the public that such dwelling or structure is insanitary. Each such notice so posted shall remain until the provisions of this section and the other provisions of the regulations governing health and sanitation shall have been fully complied with.An owner or agent violating any of the provisions of this section as to equipment, construction and maintenance of privies or closets shall be subject to a penalty of $10.00 nor more than $50.00 for each and every such offense, and each week's continuance of such violation shall constitute a separate and distinct offense.Any person who shall remove, deface, or obstruct any notice or placard which is displayed or posted under the provisions of this section other than by express authority of the county health officer shall be subject to a penalty of $10.00 nor more than $50.00.J. L. GAY, Mayor
EDW. FOTHERGILL, Clerk
Passed, May 8, 1922.PIE SUPPERThere will be a pie supper at Upper Silver Creek school house Friday night, September 8th, at 7:30. Preceeds are to be used for the benefit of school and Sunday-school.Special music and a real good time assured.Classified Advertisements*TWO OR THREE FURNISHED ROOMS up stairs for light housekeeping. Apply Mrs. Mollie Parks, Chestnut street, near Postoffice.HEMSTITCHING AND PICOTING
Attachment, works on any sewing machine, easily adjusted. Price $2.50 with full instructions. Oriental Novelty Co., Box 11, Corpus Christi, Texas. p9FOR SALE—A splendid baby buggy, as good as new, at almost half price. Painted gray; with reversible body; artillery wood wheels; with windows in sides of top. Call or see Walter White at 44 Jackson street, Berea, Ky.NOTICEAnyone having claims against the estate of Mrs. Mary M. Burdette, deceased, must present same to me, properly verified, before September 5, 1922, or they will be void. J. T.
Cornelison, Admr. (p9)FOR SALE—Cottage of 7 rooms and bath, water, lights, garage, barn.
All necessary outbuildings. Located on Broadway between Depot and Postoffice. Room for business horse on this lot and a good location for business. Purchaser may buy my furniture if he so wishes, as I am leaving the state. Priced to sell for cash. W. B. HARRIS, (owner) 50
Broadway, Berea, Ky. (No. 121)FOR SALEEight-room house in good condition. Has water and electric lights.
On good residence street and has large yard, garden, chicken pen and house, good barn and also has several bearing fruit trees. Near public school and about ten minutes walk from Berea College. Convenient to postoffice, depot, bank and stores.

C. E. Campbell

Phone 226.

Does Your Bank Take an Interest in You?Do the employees and officers know you? Are they glad to see you? Do they make sure that its service meets your personal requirements?The service of The Berea National Bank is organized with precisely this end in view. Moreover, it belongs to the FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM, and as a result, its ability both to serve you acceptably and to safeguard completely the funds entrusted to us, is materially enhanced.Let us show you what banking service means when it is based on this idea.Berea National Bank

J. L. GAY, Cashier

BEREA

KENTUCKY

AGAIN I SAYThat we do not cobble shoes. We have the best equipment coupled with our experience and workmanship which terms us as mechanics NOT COBBLERS.Compare our work with that of others and you will agree with us in this: "It's not so much how much you pay, it's what you get for what you pay."

First class work for those who care.

See THOMA

Short Street

Berea, Kentucky

LAND SALEAbout 90 Acres Good Farm LandWe, as administrators of the estate of Hannah Shockley, deceased, will sell at public sale to the highest and best bidder, onWednesday, September 13, 1922

at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

the lands known as the Hannah Shockley lands, lying on the waters of the Walnut Meadow Creek, three and a half miles west of Berea, on the Walnut Meadow Pike.

This land will be sold in two tracts, and then as a whole, as follows:

TRACT NO. 1. Containing about 46 acres, mostly bottom land, and having on it the home dwelling of seven rooms, the barn and outbuildings. A good everlasting well at house, also watered by spring, pond and creek; two acre orchard sowed to alfalfa; 11 acres sowed to clover; 6 acres in bluegrass; balance in cultivation.TRACT NO. 2. Containing about 43 acres land, all in bluegrass, and has a three-room tenant house. Watered by Walnut Meadow Creek on north and west.Anyone desiring further information or wishing to look over land can see C. O. Shockley near farm or S. M. Robinson at Richmond, Ky.Liberal terms will be made known on day of sale.S. M. ROBINSON, C. O. SHOCKLEY, Administrators JESSE CORR, AuctioneerLouisville & Nashville Railroad

Announces Reduced Round Trip

EXCURSION FAREBEREA TO LOUISVILLE

ACCOUNT

KENTUCKY STATE FAIRTickets on sale Sept. 10 to 15 inclusive, and for trains scheduled to arrive in Louisville before noon Sept. 16th.Tickets good for return to reach Berea before midnight Sept.
18th. For further or detailed information, apply to local ticket agent.CANFIELD BUS LINE

Lv. Berea	Lv. Richmond	Sunday
7:15 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
11:00 a. m.	1:30 p. m.	Leave Berea 8:15 a. m.
3:30 p. m.	8:00 p. m.	Leave Richmond 8:00 p. m.

Sunday connections for Boonesboro take No. 36 for Richmond, Boonesboro bus waiting.W. F. KIDD

Dealer in

REAL ESTATE

Berea

Kentucky

Robinson Hospital

Berea, Ky.

Rates for private room with board and care

$1.50 to $3.57 per day

$10.50 to $25.00 per week

THE CITIZEN

A non-partisan family newspaper published every Thursday by BEREA PUBLISHING CO. (Incorporated)

MARSHALL E. VAUGHN, Editor JAMES M. REINHARDT, Managing Editor

Entered at the postoffice at Berea, Ky., as second class mail matter.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

One year, $1.50; six months, 85 cents; three months, 50 cents. Payable in advance.

Foreign Advertising Representative, The American Press Association.

Italy's Dream to Annex Austria

(From Brooklyn Eagle)

"Il Paese," a newspaper in Rome, has started something, as our colloquial expression goes, in beginning an open agitation for a Protectorate over Austria with the Duke of Aosta, first cousin of King Victor, as Viceroy, and a close commercial union between Italy and what is left of the Power from which she took the Tyrol. Whether this notion will ever get beyond the dream stage is the merest guesswork. That it is bound to have a strong appeal to those who glory in the New Italy may not be questioned.

Germany would like to annex Austria as one of the States of her Federation under a republican form of government, not monarchy. But Germany is manifestly unable to give the practical help that Austria needs.

France, on the other hand, desires to have Austria join the "Little Entente" in which Yugoslavia is the most powerful element, and to which Czechoslovakia, with Prague as her capital, belongs. Prague and Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia, were all parts of Austria-Hungary. Bosnia, which is now an integral part of Yugoslavia, was also taken from Austrian territory. France relies on the "Little Entente" to back her in any coercion of Germany. And it is evident that no power in Europe could do so much to ease up economic and industrial perils in the remnant of Austria as France.

Yet Italy could not do much on the same lines. And Italy regards Yugoslavia and the "Little Entente" as enemies whom she would weaken rather than strengthen. Toward Vienna, Rome has no partiality. All Italians remember with horror the military executions of hundreds of civilians when Austrian troops occupied part of North Italy. There would, however, be a strong element of national pride in giving Austria the Duke of Aosta as viceroy, and establishing a protectorate.

How Vienna will feel about it, nobody knows, nor is it possible to conjecture how England would treat the scheme, which is a vital matter. At present British statesmanship is not encouraging France to go the limit in forceful collection of reparations from Germany, and may not be anxious to see the "Little Entente" enlarge its phylactery. Nor are they friendly to the annexation of Austria to Germany. But British policy is in a state of flux, and prophecy is a rash undertaking.

The Spirit of Knott County

'Never has writer had a better opportunity to test the real spirit of a typical mountain county than during the past few days. I have just returned from Knott county, where we have been promoting the County Achievement Contest on a county-wide basis. Nothing but the finest of enthusiasm was met with on every hand. The county chairman is ex-Senator H. H. Smith; the county secretary is former county attorney John M. Baker. The two schools, Hindman Settlement School and Caneys Creek Settlement, are cooperating to the fullest extent in promoting the County Achievement Campaign. Citizenship groups are being organized in every school district in the county. An American flag has been raised above every school house since the beginning of this contest. The health officer and the county health nurse are putting on an intensive campaign of student examination, and it is the plan to examine every boy and girl in Knott county. Samples of the drinking water are being sent to the State Board of Health, and arrangements are being made to establish clinics for the purpose of taking care of all the trachoma and hookworm cases that are discovered thru medical inspection.

The fiscal court is unanimously behind the proposition. Every minister with whom we talked is ready to lend his aid in promoting the campaign. In fact, they have adopted the slogan of "Over the Top With All Ten Departments of the Contest."

The person who says that the mountaineer is not a cooperative being is not acquainted with his subject. All he needs is a leader and he will follow. The truth is, he has often followed unscientific leaders, to his own detriment, and for this reason he is somewhat wary about taking up with newfangled notions. Produce a serious-minded leader with a program and the mountain man will follow him to the last day.

We are looking for great work and great results from Knott county.

(Signed) M. E. VAUGHN

De Yazoo Land

De Yazoo land is de land fo' me,
Yes, dat is de land o' mine,
Wid de cypress swamp an' de live oak tree,
An' de yam an' de muskydine.
O I want-a go back to de Yazoo land,
An' I want-a lie down in de Yazoo sand
An' listen to de bullfrog angel band
In dat good ole lan' o' mine.

Ise away up here on de ole St. Clair
Where de white folks come an' go,
But I want-a git back to de southern air
Where de cotton blossoms blow.

O I want-a go back to de Yazoo land,
An' I want-a lie down on de Yazoo sand
An' listen to de bullfrog angel band
Where de honeysuckle grow.

Come take me back on a river boat,
An' let me shout an' sing,
For I must git back where de lilies float
An' de wanderin' cow-bells ring.

O I want-a go back to de Yazoo land,
An' I want-a lie down on de Yazoo sand
An' listen to de bullfrog angel band
In de glory nights o' spring.

—John F. Smith

Berea College.

When Death has put our toys away
And called us off to bed,
And tucked the comfort of the dusk
About each weary head;
Of all the dreams that come to bless
That hour of quiet rest,
The memory of the love we gave
Will surely be the best.

Etiquette was invented to prevent folks from getting enough to eat at the dinner table.

The man of one idea always has to be tending it; the man of many ideas can let the children entertain one another.

Actual Ruler of the American People Today
Is the Supreme Court

By ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE, U. S. Senator From Wisconsin.

I purpose shortly to introduce a proposed amendment to the Constitution. I would amend the Constitution so as to provide: (1) That no inferior federal judge shall set aside a law of congress on the ground that it is unconstitutional; (2) that if the Supreme court assumes to decide any law of congress unconstitutional, or, by interpretation, undertakes to assert a public policy at variance with the statutory declaration of congress—which alone under our system is authorized to determine the public policies of government—the congress may by re-enacting the law nullify the action of the court. Thereafter the law would remain in full force and effect, precisely the same as though the court had never held it to be unconstitutional.

A century and a half ago our forefathers shed their blood in order that they might establish upon this continent a government deriving its just powers from the consent of the governed, in which the will of the people, expressed through their duly elected representatives, should be sovereign. By a process of gradual encroachments, uncertain and timid at first, but now confident and aggressive, sovereignty has been wrested from the people and usurped by the courts.

Today the actual ruler of the American people is the Supreme court of the United States. The law is what they say it is, and not what the people, through congress, enact. Aye, even the Constitution of the United States is not what its plain terms declare but what these nine men construe it to be.

In fact, five of these nine men are actually the supreme rulers, for by a bare majority the court has repeatedly overridden the will of the people as declared by their representatives in congress, and has construed the Constitution to mean whatever suited their peculiar economic and political views. The nine lawyers who constitute the Supreme court are placed in positions of power for life, not by the votes of the people but by presidential appointment.

FIGHT AGAINST DIPHTHERIA

Because the number of deaths from diphtheria in Kentucky has almost doubled in the last three years, and doubled needlessly, according to Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, the State Board of Health already is starting a campaign which has as its sole object the lowering of the number of fatalities next winter from this disease.

There were 352 deaths from diphtheria reported in 1919, according to J. F. Blackerby, Director of the Board of Health's Bureau of Vital Statistics. The number rose in 1920 to 423 and last year jumped again to 644.

These deaths, Dr. McCormack says, every one could have been prevented if antitoxin in sufficient quantities had been administered early enough in the history of each case.

Steps being taken by the Board of Health now to lower the deaths from diphtheria this winter include the calling to all doctors' attention the fact that the board has available all the antitoxin needed, emphasizing the necessity of using this antitoxin before the disease has taken too firm a hold on its victim, and advocacy of the use of the Schick test in schools where there has been a case of diphtheria.

THE PAUL'S GREETING

What is so good, when the day is all dreary,
When life is a gloom, and your heart is a-weary,
To suddenly hear ringing out loud and cheery:
"Good Morning, Old Pal!"

Things will go wrong, and some job you are doing
Will bust; and the dream that your heart is pursuing Will break; but you suddenly stop all your rueing
At "Hello, Old Pal!"

Life would be futile and barren and broken,
If out of the kingdom of Love ne'er were spoken
The word that is friendship's best symbol and token:
"God Bless You, Old Pal!"

Thank God for the pals who are never forgetting,
Who jest at the moment our sad hearts are fretting,
Put an end to our gloom and our dreary regretting
With "Cheer Up, Old Pal!"

Some day when the heart turns forever to dreaming,
And over our eyes Heaven's glory is streaming,
How good it will be mid the stars' deathless gleaming
To hear "Welcome, Old Pal!"

ROADS TO LAST

Hordes of autos now remind us
We should build our roads to stay,
And departing leave behind us
Kinds that rains won't wash away.

When our children pay the mortgage
Father made to haul their loads,
They'll not have to ask the question,
"Here's the bonds, but where are the roads?"

—A paraphrase of Longfellow's poem, which adorns the office of a Highway Commissioner at Albany, New York.

THE PARABLE OF THE HOLY MAN AND THE FLAPPER

By Alton Baker

Behold, a flapper went forth to flap, and as she proceeded she lifted up her eyes and beheld a holy man and drove straightway in his direction. And when she had come nigh, he saw her and marvelled and put his book in his pocket and took off his glasses and wiped them and looked upon her again. And he said, "What art thou, and whence dost thou come?" And she said unto him, "I am a flapper, what art thou?" And he answered her saying, "I am a holy man. I spend my days in meditation preparing for the world that is to come, but if mine eyes do not deceive me, that world is already here and thou art it. Thou must be the Eve of the new Paradise, but where, I pray thee, is thy fig leaf?" Thou wilt catch cold." And she answered him saying, "I fear neither the cold nor the sunshine nor the opinions of men nor the envy of the plain women. I wear my beauty as my chiefest garment and I bob my hair. I am the flower of this generation and the wonder of the world."

And the holy man was sore amazed and he spake and said, "All my life I have held other ideas, but I had not seen thee." And she said, "What ideas?" And he answered and said, "I had thought that women should hide themselves with long and cumbersome garments, should wear long hair and mournful habiliments and expose nothing to the light except their noses, but, as I said, I had not seen thee."

And after that they had conversed a little season, the holy man said, "It is not good that man should be alone; wilt thou marry me?" And the flapper answered and said, "I wilt," and they twain were made one in the little church on the roadside, where it was the custom of the holy man to exhort the people.

And when the holy man taught on the Sabbath Day, it came to pass that he set his wife, even the flapper, in the midst of the congregation, and certain old sisters turned up their noses. But it was observed that those who turned up their noses the highest were also the ugliest and it gat them nothing but hard words. And their husbands rebuked them, saying, "Yea, our preacher is a wise man, and his taste is excellent. May he live long and prosper." And when the collection plate was passed, certain old deacons and misers, who had never been known to give more than a dime before, and thought their salvation high at that price, were seen to give half dollars and quarters. For as they said, "The preacher's family hath increased."

And the preacher throve exceedingly, and after a little season the female portion of his congregation resembled nothing so much as a flower garden, and the male portion were like unto divers bumblebees buzzing thereabouts.

This parable sheweth that there are times when new wine is good for old bottles.

Don't give up a good thing just because you have found another. Make use of both.

MRS. MARGARET BOWLIN HILL.

One by one the old and beloved settlers of Wallacetown are answering the call of death. Sunday evening, at seven o'clock, Mrs. Margaret Bowlin Hill passed away. Mrs. Hill, who was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Bowlin, was born October 16, 1860. She is survived by her husband, Mr. Joe Hill, and their two adopted children, Otto, twelve, and Ossie, seventeen. It was but last September that Otto accidentally discharged a twenty-two rifle, the ball of which took out both of Ossie's eyes.

Mrs. Hill joined the Methodist Church in her early girlhood days, and has been a faithful worker and loyal Christian in the community thru all these years.

Rev. C. E. Vogel conducted the funeral services at the Wallace Chapel, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. More people were present than the chapel could accommodate.

Friends extend their sympathy and desire to be called upon for any help that they can render either to Bro. Hill, the blind girl or the little boy.

MILDRED—The Gone Yet Lives

We hear not now the prattle of her voice,
The patter of her feet fore'er has gone;

Her smile but lingers as a memory sweet,
To human ear is hushed her baby song.

Her tender arms encircled us with love,
Her precious hands so oft did wave goodbye;

Her presence, how it cheered our hearts within,
'Twas music just to hear our baby cry.

She's gone. And yet she lives. She lives
As truly as she lived within our walls,
Beyond the portals of that Haven Fair

We hear our darling's voice, she calls, she calls,
We see her now, an angel calm and bright,
Rejoiced with gladness, radiant with light,

With baby arms outstretched she waits
And beckons us to take the Path of Right.

She lives, ah yes, she lives! And e'er shall live
To call and beckon us thru years of time,

To woo, to win, to draw, and to inspire
Unto that richer, fuller, better life sublime.

Ah, how she draws us to that Haven Fair
To which God called her e'er her time was rife,
That we by loving her might love God more

And dwell together. Blessed gift—Eternal Life.

BOBTOWN NEWS

The revival at Pilot Knob closed last Thursday night, which was conducted by Rev. Cornett, was very helpful and much appreciated by a great many people. Rev. Cornett is a man who preaches the gospel that belongs to the ages. There were six additions to the church. His compensation was $65. We believe the people of Pilot Knob feel that they have been benefited and our command to Bro. Cornett is to preach a long time.

The school at Bobtown is on the road to success. No real teacher is ever satisfied. When a teacher reaches that point both school and teacher is a failure.

The Sunday-school and prayer meeting are progressing nicely. The people of Bobtown owe much admiration to Dr. Penniman, a man with exceptional ability as a minister and instructor, who so willingly gives himself for the people of this community.

Two great events for Bobtown: First, the ice cream supper, which will be given for the benefit of Bobtown school, on Saturday night, September 2nd. It is to be hoped that H. E. Taylor will be there, the famous musician, of Berea, and he will smile and play for all who will come. The second event of great interest to Bobtown is that President Frost of Berea College is to preach at Bobtown school house on September 3rd at 8:00 p. m., just following the Sunday-school. We feel very happy indeed to have the man who has labored amongst us for so many years to come and bring us a great message. It is to be hoped that a hundred and fifty people will be present, many of whom may never hear President Frost preach again. Let us all come and honor the man whose influence among us can never be forgotten.

The Scrap Book

COULDN'T SEE JOKE AT ALL

Mr. Brown Quite Willing to Admit That He Acted in a Rather Hasty Manner.

"What's the matter?" Inquired Brown's friend. "You're looking pretty blue." "Yes," growled Brown. "I was coming along the High street tonight when, without a moment's warning, something smashed into my back and howled me over. When I gathered myself together, I found that a boy and a bicycle were mixed up on the pavement. I just took hold of the youngster and gave him a swift entry into the road. The bicycle I finished off so that it will never run again."

"Well, that ought to have relieved your feelings," interrupted his friend. "In the ordinary course it might have done," said Brown; "but I found that it was my boy and my bicycle!"

CURIOUS FOCUSING OF SOUNDS

But the Explanation of Existence of "Whispering Galleries" is in the Main Simpla.

The curious focusing of sounds in whispering galleries, such as the domes of St. Paul's cathedral and the capitol at Washington, is a phenomenon of much interest and impressiveness. The late Lord Rayleigh obtained evidence that the sound waves followed the concave surface to the point of increased audibility, and when a source of directed sound sent off its waves tangentially, the greatest concentration was observed. A bird-call being used, a small obstacle near the curved wall cut off most of the effect upon a sensitive flame.

In new experiments reported to the Royal society by G. V. Roman and G. A. Sutherland, a ray of light was guided by a flexible mirror, and the reflection showed alternate bands of light and darkness. In observations with a steady source of sound at one point in the dome of St. Paul's, it was found that similar alternations of sound and comparative silence were produced at intervals of about a wave length of the sound as the ear was moved away. Very pronounced fluctuations of intensity were also noted when the observer's head was moved parallel to the curved wall, instead of radially, the effect being most marked at the side of the gallery opposite the source of sound. The sensitive flame responded to fluctuations.

Medicine Hat Gasoline Rain.

A well that spouts gasoline from the earth like a cloud of steam was recently struck in the Many Island district in Canada, 25 miles northeast of Medicine Hat. Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering describes the rush which followed the discovery in which people stood all night before the Dominion land office to be the first to file leases in the morning.

The well is a natural gas drilling and the gasoline with which the gas is "wet" is not of commercial significance, as it is only a temporary condition. However, it is said that several owners of "divers" were quick to seize the opportunity to lay in a few weeks' supply of gas by holding out their hats. From an industrial standpoint, the recent development in the natural gas and oil fields in Canada are of great importance.

A HOLD-UP

Willie—I say, auntie, give us a quarter or I'll let it loose.

New Theater and Old Dramatist.

Mr. Macgowan seriously believes that the new stagecraft releases the spirit of the playwright; it seems to me that the old playwright has released the spirit of the new stage artist. The revolving stage made possible "On Trial"; but the despised old theater was sufficient for "Seven Keys to Baldpate"; and Dante, Shakespeare, and Tolstoy are the sources of our finest stage productions so far.—G. S. in the Dial.

Oldest Dead-Head Pass.

Marc Klaw, theatrical magnate, brought to America what he interprets as the "first dead-head" pass given for a theatrical performance.

Exhibiting a fragment of lava in the form of a skull, he said it was a ticket for an old Roman theater. He said he had picked it up in Italy and believed it was made in 77 A. D.

New Air Sport.

Passengers in airplanes are preparing for a new excitement. Small balloons filled with hydrogen will be released, and the passengers in the planes will be provided with shotguns. The idea being to see who can shoot down the greatest number of balloons.

MOUNTAIN AGRICULTURE

Conducted by Mr. Robert F. Spence, Farm Demonstrator and Special Investigator

JUNIOR LIVESTOCK JUDGING TEAM

The Junior Livestock Judging team has been selected. The following boys make up the team to represent the Junior agricultural clubs of Madison and Rockcastle: John Goodline, Jr., James McWilliams, and Simon Newman. These boys scored out the highest number of points in their preparatory work, which entitles them to a trip to the State Fair, where they will enter into competition with 35 other Junior Judging Teams of the State.

These boys will leave Berea Tuesday, September 12th, with their county agent for Louisville, where they will spend two days judging live stock. They have been in training for some time and are still being coached in addition to their special study.

POULTRY SHOW—BEREA

The poultry show at Berea was very good. There were 87 birds on exhibit, from which 32 were selected by Mr. Smith, Poultry Specialist, to be sent to the State Fair as a Standardization exhibit. Mr. Smith was pleased with the show and commented upon the quality of the birds.

The exhibitors brought their dinners, spread them together on the campus, and had their annual picnic dinner in connection with this show.

The exhibit selected will be sent to the State Fair, September 9th, and will remain throughout the fair.

TEACHERS' MEETING

The teachers of Rockcastle county are to meet in Mt. Vernon at the courthouse at 10 o'clock Saturday, September 2, for the purpose of discussing some of the vital questions confronting Rockcastle county at present.

All teachers are urged to be present.

All teachers are urged to be present. Visitors and others interested in the county's progress are invited. Judge Bowman and others will speak. Some definite work will be taken up by the teachers at this meeting.

COVER CROPS

The Farm Bureau of Madison has recently bought 3500 bushels of rye for its farmers to be seeded this fall. This is a progressive step. More rye seeded means more acres of land covered for the winter and in return means more grazing, more grain, more humus in the soil next spring when turned under and holds the soil from leaching and washing. We can't afford not to sow some rye. NOW is the time to buy. September and October are the months to sow rye. Plan now for a cover crop.

CULLING POULTRY FOR EGGS

August and September are the months in which to cull the flock for egg production. We don't want to keep the non-producers thru the winter. Half of the hens on our farms are not laying nor won't lay this winter. Why not get rid of them now instead of keeping them thru the winter and selling next spring?

Cull the flock NOW and save 50 per cent of the feed this winter. Information can be obtained from the county agent, Berea. The county agent is ready to hold culling demonstrations for those interested. These demonstrations will be for the purpose of teaching others how to cull.

BETTER SIRE

We need better stallions, jacks, bulls, bucks, boars and roosters to head our stock business on the farm. It doesn't cost any more to raise a good animal than a bad one if we get started right. NOW is the time to start right by getting a purebred registered sire or sires in the community. Do not breed to scrubs or grumpies.

TIRES & TUBES
As good on your automobile as they were on your bicycle

J. W. PURKEY

TEN YEARS

TO THE boy of eight, ten years is an eternity. Ten years ago he had no existence. Ten years more and he will be a man in stature—a size that seems to him far beyond attainment.

To the boy of twenty-one, ten years, while not a lifetime, is a long stretch ahead.

At the end of the coming ten years he will be well on his way to whatever he is going, success or failure.

If he could understand just how much those ten years mean, just what can be done with them, just what they will yield if rightly cultivated, there would be far less trouble and distress in the world.

To the man of forty, ten years are ten years which must not be wasted. The next ten years are his best, as far as productivity is concerned. If he has not made the last ten years count, he still has a chance with the next ten.

After that, unless he is a phenomenon, the chance will be gone. He can progress after fifty, go further than he has ever gone, but rarely unless he is going strong on his fiftieth birthday.

Look at your remaining years as an asset. Examine the next ten of them for opportunity, and see if you can allot to each enough work to carry you at a better pace into the next decade.

Ten years wisely employed at any time after twenty ought to make a man either a success or a failure.

They may not be enough to bring a fortune, but they ought to bring habits and methods which later will insure independence.

Compare the next ten years with the last, and determine that these stretches of time, now empty and unimproved, shall be filled with achievement that is worth while.

You can put into them almost anything you choose—work, effort, thought, or biling, and time wasting.

Almost any man can be made or broken in ten years. You have at least that time before you if you are the age of the average newspaper reader.

Make up your mind that even if the last ten years counted for nothing the next ten will count for much. Make that purpose, and stick to it. And these coming ten years will be the best you have ever known.

(Copyright by John Blake)

In the Movies.

"Be careful of that tiger!"

"Oh, we are not afraid of him hurt anybody."

"I know that. But I don't want the comedian to maul him to death. Tiger cost money."

Appropriate Nickname.

"Here comes 'April Showers,'" said Tommy to his playmate as his sister May's name came up the walk.

"Why do you call him 'April Showers'?" asked the other boy.

"Cause he brings May flowers."

Grateful.

Gladys—My dressmaker wrote to dad that she would make no more dresses for me until her account was settled.

Helen—And what did he say?

Gladys—He just sent her a letter of thanks.

ON THE WING

"That new cook is a bird."

"Yes, a bird of passage. She's going to leave tomorrow."

CINCINNATI MARKETS

Hay and Grain

Corn—No. 2 white 67½¢@68¢; No. 3 white 66½¢@67¢; No. 3 yellow 67½¢@68¢; No. 1 white 61¢@62¢; No. 4 yellow 60½¢@61¢; No. 2 mixed 66½¢@67¢.

Wheat—No. 2 red $1.10@1.11; No. 3 $1.07@1.08; No. 4 $1.02@1.03.

Oats—No. 2 white 35½¢@36½¢; No. 3 34½¢@35½¢; No. 2 mixed 34½¢@35½¢; No. 3 mixed 32½¢@33½¢.

Butter, Eggs and Poultry

Butter—Dairy fancy 28¢; packing stock No. 1, 26¢; packing stock No. 2, 18¢.

Eggs—Extra firsts 28½¢; firsts 25¢; ordinary firsts 22¢.

Live Poultry—Broilers 1½ lbs and over 21¢; fowls 4 pounds and over 20½¢; under 4 lbs 19¢; roosters 12½¢.

Live Stock

Cattle—Steers, good to choice $8.00@9.00; fair to good $6.00@8; common to fair $4.00@5.00; heifers good to choice $8.00@9.00; fair to good $6.00@8; common to fair $4.00@5.00; cows good to choice $5.00@6; common $3.50@4.25; stock steers $5.50@6.50; stock heifers $4.00@5.50.

Calves—Good to choice $11.50@12; fair to good $9@11.50; common and large $5@8.50.

Sheep—Good to choice $14@15; fair to good $12@14; common $10@12; lambs good to choice $13@14.50; fair to good $9.00@11.00.

Hogs—Heavy $8.50@9.00; choice packers and butchers $6.50@7.75; medium $9.75; common to choice heavy fat sows $5.00@5.50; pigs (110 pounds and less) $5@7.75.

SUITABLE COSTUMES TO BE CHOSEN BY CLUB WOMEN AT KENTUCKY STATE FAIR

By Mabel Jean Melton

Louisville, Ky.—Just where the graceful hip sash, the outstanding feature of autumn modes in afternoon and evening wear should end, and the length of the skirt of a smart tailored suit for morning wear, are some of the problems to be solved by Mrs. G. A. Goodell, President of the Parent-Teacher League of Louisville, and her committee on costumes, for Women's Club Day, September 12, at the Kentucky State Fair, September 11 to 16.

Merchants of Louisville will submit models to these women, who in turn will approve those most representative of good taste as understood by them. What to wear at club meetings, lectures, musicals, and at the theatre, will be suggested by a display of the approved models. These gowns will be featured in exhibition cases throughout the entire week of the fair.

we women, to be correctly attired beyond a question of doubt, should gaze upon the official gowns and instruct the home dress maker to follow suggestions acquired from the gazing.

Mothers of the state will no longer bear the brunt of the blame for impossible flapper costumes. For it is safe to predict that the skirts and draperies of the chosen gowns will be neither too long, or in any way ridiculously fashionable.

From the young women comes the question—will these thoughtful women approve ear rings?

Shall young matrons be guilty of bad taste if hoops and pendants of jade sway from their ears? We must wait until the fair to learn the answer. In the meantime the young wives may silently hope that the beauty of the official wax figure gown will be increased with pearl, jade or coral ear decorations.

The clubwomen have consented to make selections of suitable costumes, because they realize the importance of good taste in dressing.

The flapper with her short hair and shorter skirts must go, so fashion decrees. But the black gown "vamp" with trailing draperies must not take her place.

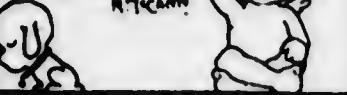

Mrs. Goodell has named the following women as members of her committee: Mrs. William S. Sheridan, representing the Outdoor Art League; Mrs. Bernard Seligman of the Jewish Women's Federation; and Mrs. A. E. Broderick, from the Business and Profession Women's Club. The fifth member is to be appointed and will be a representative of the Women's Club.

Judging from the interest in the Costume Committee, and its duties, it is quite safe to say that every woman will visit the magnetic spot where these officially chosen gowns will be shown.

Mrs. George H. Newman is General Chairman of Women's Club Day Tuesday, September 12th, as well as for the entire week.

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

I was dancing last night with my new pumps too loose—I hope that the girl never knows As I smiled in her face with a languorous grace How madly I curled up my toes.

Lefever

New Lefever Nitro-Special only $29.00

O.K.'ed and purchased in quantities by the U. S. Navy. Well finished, considering the price. Built to shoot right and stand as much use as the most expensive gun. Most durable lock ever put in a gun—first lock fired over 77,000 times.

Every gun proofed with an extreme load. A standardized gun built only in 20 ga. 28 in., 12 ga. 28 in., and 12 ga. 28 and 30 in. with 14 in. stock and about 2½ in. drop. A Lefever won the world's championship at the Olympic games in London. Lefever has stood for service and durability for over 60 years. WRITE FOR CATALOGUE Lefever Arms Co., Box A, Ithaca, N.Y.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 3

NEHEMIAH REBUILDS THE WALLS OF JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Neh. 1:1-4

GOLDEN TEXT—Our God will fight for us—Neh. 4:20

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Neh. 2:9-20, 4:1-23:45

PRIMARY TOPIC—How God helped Nehemiah build a Wall

JUNIOR TOPIC—How a City Wall Was Rebuilt

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC

Success Through Leadership and Co-operation

Having secured a leave of absence from the Persian court, and credentialed from the king, Nehemiah journeyed to Jerusalem. After resting three days without disclosing his purpose to any one, he made a survey of the walls by night. Having thus obtained first-hand information he called the representatives of the Jews together and said, "Let us build the walls of Jerusalem." He then made known the hand of providence in bringing him to Jerusalem with the authority to rebuild its walls. He thus showed great wisdom in dealing out for himself the real conditions and what work would be required to restore the walls. The one who is qualified to lead in a great undertaking is the one who has mastered the situation and is thus able to remove objections and show how the work can be done.

Preparation for the Building (ch. 3).

The division of labor in this project shows Nehemiah's administrative ability. A wise distribution of labor makes difficult tasks easy.

Note some outstanding features of this great work.

1. Stress Laid Upon Indifference (3:5). In administrative tasks it is just that indifference should be pointed out. Such action will be a warning to some and an encouragement to others by showing the integrity of the director.

2. Help Rendered by the Women (3:12). Perhaps Shulmi had no sons to aid him. It is a fine thing for women to be able to take hold even in building a wall when there are no men to do it. God's word carefully notes such extraordinary acts.

3. Stress Laid Upon Earnestness of Some (3:20). If one knows that his faithfulness will be recognized he will earnestly pursue his tasks.

4. Every One Built Over Against His Own House (3:10, 23, 24). Man's chief concern is for his family. No incentive to exertion is quite so strong as that which concerns his own family.

5. Certain Guilds of Men Undertook Certain Work (ch. 3:8, 31, 32). Wise administration sometimes calls for such alignment of efforts. Men of the same class and craft will usually work better together.

6. Hindrances Encountered (4:14; 14).

1. Scolding of Sanballat and Tobiah (4:14; cf. 2:10-20). The opposers of God's servants usually begin by hurling at them shafts of ridicule. They called the Jews but a feeble folk and asserted that the trend of a prowling fox would break down their stone wall.

2. Conspiracy of a Sudden Attack (4:7-9). When the enemy saw that the work was actually succeeding they changed from ridicule to an attempt to throw the workmen into a panic and thus hinder the work. When the enemy cannot succeed by scolding then he resorts to intimidation.

3. Conspiracy With the Jews (4:10-23). They sought by means of the Jews from the outside to discourage their brethren by showing that the task was hopeless and that at any time they were subject to a sudden and secret attack.

4. Greed and Oppression of the Rulers (5:1-13). The Jews of that day, like the producers in the recent World war, took advantage of the poor and oppressed them so that they mortgaged their land and sold their daughters into slavery. Nehemiah boldly rebuked them for their crimes and ordered a restoration to be made, exacting an oath of them that they would fulfill their promises.

5. Scheme to Take Nehemiah's Life (6:1-11). When Sanballat and Tobiah failed in every other way they sought by craft to get Nehemiah away that they might kill him.

11. The Wall Completed (6:15-17).

So energetically did they pursue their tasks that in fifty-two days the wall was completed. When the enemies heard that in spite of all their schemes the work was actually completed, they were cast down, for they perceived that the work was of God.

Find the Rock Beneath.

The steps of faith fall on the seeming void, but find the rock beneath.—Whittier.

Empty.

Four things are grievously empty: A head without brains, a will without judgment, a heart without honesty, and a purse without money.—Earle.

Cultivate Forbearance.

Cultivate forbearance till your heart yields at the crop of it. Pray for a short memory to all unkindnesses.

Mother's Cook Book

"Worry and optimism cannot travel the same road, to say nothing of going in the same company. A real good warrior is not generally caught after, either in business or social life."

FOR THE FAMILY MEAL

TO MAKE hot lunch sandwiches, chop remnants of ham fine; season and moisten with cream or melted butter and put on buttered slices of bread. Press the slices firmly together and trim them in oblongs or squares. Heat one egg, add from a cupful to a pint of milk, according to the number of sandwiches; add a little pepper and salt and dip each sandwich in the mixture, turning once or twice until well saturated. Brown delicately on both sides in a hot frying pan with a little butter. Serve at once on a hot platter, garnished with parsley or marston leaves and blossoms. Sandwiches filled with jelly may be fried the same way, dusted with powdered sugar and served as dessert.

Apple Salad.

Slice tender apples thinly, leaving the skin remain if bright red. Mix with half as much finely-cut celery, chopped onion or cabbage. Add enough thick cooked salad dressing to hold the mixture together. Peanut butter may be used in place of the dressing if desired; season with salt, pepper and thin with a little vinegar and water. Serve on lettuce or in apple cups.

Strawberry Cake.

Make a one-egg cake mixture and bake in two layers. Take the whites of two eggs beaten stiff and dry, then add one cupful of crushed strawberries mixed with one cupful of sugar. Add gradually, beating all the while until stiff enough to hold its shape. Place on the cake and cover with the other layer.

Nellie Maxwell
1922 by Western Newspaper Union

Some Accelerator!

Father (from upstairs)—Helen, isn't it time for that young man to go home?

Young man—Your father is a crank. Father (overhearing)—Well, when you don't have a self-starter a crank comes in mighty handy.

Fat Requests.

Heinrich—Vol vos you doing, Hans?

Hans—I was my vill making to men vife everything I give—to men sister the remainder I leave—to men brother the residue shall have—and all that vast after that left over to you, Heinrich, is.

Hundreds of Thousands of WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL

DICTIONARIES are in use by business men, engineers, bankers, judges, architects, physicians, farmers, teachers, librarians, clergymen, by successful men and women the world over.

Are You Equipped to Win?

The New International provides the means to success. It is an all-knowing teacher, a universal question answerer. If you seek efficiency and advancement why not make daily use of this vast fund of information?

400,000 Vocabulary Terms. 2700 Pages. 6000 Illustrations. Colored Plates. 30,000 Geographical Subjects. 12,000 Biographical Entries.

Regular and India-Paper Editions.

Write for specimen pages, illustrations, etc. Free. A set of Pocket Maps if you name three papers.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO., Springfield, Mass.

ITHACA WINS

Captain Paul A. Curtis, Shooting Editor of Field and Stream says: "The first gun I ever bought was an Ithaca. It is just as strong and accurate just as hard as it did when I was a boy."

Catalogue Free Double game for game $27.50 up. $10 in a barrel trap gun $75 up.

ITHACA GUN CO. ITHACA, N. Y. Box G.

Buy a Ford—and Spend the difference

Henry Ford

$348

F.O.B. DETROIT

Never before has there been produced, at so low a price, a car so serviceable, so trustworthy and so economical of maintenance as the Ford Touring Car. Millions of owners say so. Buy your Ford today. Terms if desired.

Richmond Motor Co.
Richmond, Ky.

East Kentucky Correspondence News You Get Nowhere Else

No correspondence published unless signed in full by the writer. The name is not for publication, but as an evidence of good faith. Write plainly.

JACKSON COUNTY

McKee

McKee, Aug. 28.—Circuit court opened this morning with Judge Manning presiding.—Memorial services were conducted in honor of Judge Hiram Johnson, deceased. Rev. Fred DeLong delivered a sermon at the Sunday evening services to the largest crowd we have had for some time. Many hearers went away feeling spiritually blessed after hearing and witnessing such a fine sermon. Every effort which can be put forth is being pushed by citizens of this place for the betterment of our county. We are in good hopes of winning in the Achievement Contest. Fine reports are coming in from different parts of the county.—Master Edgar Gabbard is attending school at the Annapolis Institute.—Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Minter spent the week-end with relatives in the upper end of the county.—Roy Hornsby is visiting in Ohio this week.—There will be a King's Daughters' Convention at this place next Saturday. Dinner will be served and a fine time is expected. The School Fair for Educational Division No. 1 will be held at McKee, September 30th. Every teacher is requested to attend.

Drip Rock

Drip Rock, Aug. 24.—We have had a little rain this afternoon, the first in over three weeks. Crops look very well considering the dry weather.—Sunday-school is progressing nicely at this place with fine attendance.—Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Alcorn, Jr., and daughter, Maria, are planning on making a visit to Berea this week.—Sheriff Tyra Laihart and Marshal Elias H. Flannery made a raid in these parts Friday and cut up a still belonging to Hanford and Stanley Richardson and destroying 8 tubs of beer, but they never captured the worm. Then the same day they destroyed a still near the same place belonging to Sterling Marcum and was lucky enough to capture the worm there. The Richardson boys were taken to Richmond and later released on bond, but Marcum is still at London awaiting trial.—Quite a crowd attended county court at McKee Monday.—Miss Provy Murren visited Misses Olla and Ethel Laihart Sunday.—Misses Barthena Provy and Nannie Sparks visited Miss Maria Alcorn, Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. Rud Isanes and Maude Alcorn attended church at Happy Top Sunday and also took dinner with James E. Isaacs' family.—Miss Violet Lakes, who has been visiting hereabouts at this place, has returned to Berea to attend the Fall Term of school there.—Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Isaacs visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Williams Wednesday.

Herd

Herd, Aug. 26.—Mrs. C. N. Shepherd of Ohio is spending the week-end with Mrs. Stephen Farmer of this place.—Prohibition officer E. B. Flannery and Sheriff Tyra Laihart captured two moonshine stills, four men and between eight and nine hundred gallons of beer and one and a half gallons of whisky. The stills were found close to the county line, between Jackson and Estill, near Drip Rock.—Mr. and Mrs. Lige Rulph of Elias are spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson.—Misses Martha and Bertha Farmer gave a bean hulling last Tuesday night. There was a large crowd present and all reported a nice time.—Albert Frost, Jr., of Burning Springs, is visiting relatives at this place for a few days.—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Smith and daughter, Goldie, and Miss Ida Smith, all of Green Hall, spent last Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. Ham Farmer.—G. E. Wyrick of Hazard is visiting hereabouts for a while.

Sinking Valley

Sinking Valley, Aug. 28.—We had a fine rain in this vicinity Friday which was badly needed.—Miss Ninie Isaacs visited Miss China Isaacs Friday night.—Godfrey Isaacs killed two rattlesnakes Tuesday. They were very large ones. They were only a few feet apart.—Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Isaacs were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Isaacs, Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Isaacs attended the holiness meeting at Sand Gap Saturday and Sunday.—It seems as most the people are using C. M. Russell's store at Kerby Knob, Ky., for cheap goods.—Everybody read The Citizen; it is a good paper.

ESTILL COUNTY

Noland

Noland, Aug. 28.—We had a nice rain Thursday night which was needed very badly. The farmers are busy cutting and housing tobacco. Tobacco is hurt on account of the dry weather.—Miss Cora Venable of Berea, who has been clerking for her uncle, O. H. Garrett, returned home Monday.—Mr. and Mrs. Rice Winkler and two daughters of Ravenss, who have been visiting friends and relatives here for the last week, returned home Wednesday.—Mr. and Mrs. Omar Oglesby and family were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Isaacs last Wednesday.—Amos Richardson and Mrs. Rachel Walton were the guests of W. L. Lay, Wednesday. The death angel visited the home of Mrs. W. C. Richardson August 19th at 6:30 p. m. and took away her beloved husband, who has been bedfast for the last six months. He was 58 years old and leaves a wife, father, two daughters and one brother and one sister to mourn his loss. He has been a member of the Christian Church about 40 years. He was an elder of the church before his death.—Ernest Walton and Andy Brandenburg motored to Lexington Tuesday to attend the fair.—Lane Peters of Owsley county was the guest of John Peters, Saturday night.

MADISON COUNTY

Dreyfus

Dreyfus, Aug. 26.—The people were all well pleased with the good rain which fell a few days ago.—Mrs. Susie Powell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. James Denny were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Linn last Sunday.—Frank Jones' family visited Mr. and Mrs. David Kindred Sunday.—The people of the Christian Church at Dreyfus are going to put a new metal roof on the church house this week. They are getting the house ready for a revival meeting to begin Sunday, September 3.—Mr. and Mrs. Lucy Baker went to Jackson county last Friday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Denny Rose, for a few days.—Emery Linn of Lexington is visiting hereabouts at this place for a few days. Willie Linn and James Denny and June Linn are building a barn for Ed Powell near Rogersville.—Mrs. Ann Hudson of Berea is visiting her son, Dan Hudson, near Dreyfus, for a few days. She is 94 years old.

Blue Lick

Blue Lick, Aug. 28.—Both animal and vegetable kingdoms have been resuscitated by welcome rains, gentle rains that descended like the "quality of mercy upon the place beneath," bringing twofold blessing and not restrained by cyclones, tornadoes, and electrical shocks as in some less favored localities.—Archie Flannery, teacher of Physical Training in Battle Creek, Michigan, high schools, returned home today, accompanied by Miss Benson of Tamplin, West Va., who teaches in Albion, Mich.—Mrs. Bertha Baker of Indianapolis is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, of this section.—Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Powell of Livingston, Ky., have been here at their farm canning peaches. They returned to Kerby Knob to attend a revival at that church.—F. A. Campbell and wife, who moved to Lexington, are out at their farm in this vicinity canning their abundant fruit crop.—John Hawkins went to Lexington to work this week.—T. J. Flannery took two bound pups to Blue Grass Fair and received premiums. Silver cups and blue ribbons galore were awarded to the ones he sold the week before. One little poodle thrown into a sea of inactivity like this will stimulate industry in that particular line—but "the race is not always to the swift or the battle to the strong." Time and chance happeneth to all and the canine industry has its drawbacks not enumerated here. Consult at this office for further details.

Walnut Meadow

Walnut Meadow, Aug. 30.—A pie supper at High Point schoolhouse recently was quite a success, proceeds amounting to about $40.—The picnic between Glades and Silver Creek Sunday-schools held at the fair grounds was pronounced the best one ever.—Mrs. E. F. Ogg, who underwent an operation at Robinson Hospital last Friday, is reported as getting along nicely.—Casper Ogg left Sunday for Pulaski county, where he has a position as teacher.—The Misses Jewell and Lillie Ogg, also Miss Gertrude Terrill, leave today for their work, Jewell going to Ohio, Lilly and Gertrude to Florida.—Robert Baugh, who has been in poor health all summer, is reported better.—Miss Mertie Morgan has gone to Cincinnati, O., to be with her brother.—W. O. Moore sold a nice bunch of cattle at 7 cents per pound.—Miss Mary Moore is teaching at Bear Wallow.

Wallacetown

Wallacetown, Aug. 28.—The farmers are busy cutting and housing their tobacco.—Miss Kate Baker spent Sunday with Mrs. Jas. Wallace.—Grandma Hill is visiting friends and relatives here this week.—Mr. and Mrs. Dan Rotkin visited homefolks Sunday.—The revival closed at the Baptist Church with 12 new additions to the church and three by letter.—Mr. and Mrs. John Guinn and family spent Sunday with her mother Mrs. Jas. Guinn.—William Denny, who has been working for E. E. Wallace the past month, spent the week-end with his mother in Pulaski county.—Word has been received here that Mrs. John Van Winkle (nee Thelma Robinson) is very ill at her home in Richmond with typhoid fever. Her many friends hope for her speedy recovery.—Mrs. Margaret Hill, wife of Joe Hill, died at home after an illness of heart trouble for many months. Mrs. Hill was a member of the Methodist Church. She leaves a husband and an adopted daughter who lost her eyesight one year ago. She also leaves several brothers and sisters and a host of friends to mourn her loss. The bereaved family has the sympathy of their many friends.—There will be a club meeting at the Wallacetown school house Saturday night, September 2. Everybody invited.

Baker School District

Baker School District, Aug. 22.—We are blessed by a good rain which was badly needed. God shows His power by many ways.—Mrs. M. M. Jennings is under Dr. Edmonson's care at Crab Orchard, and is feeling some better.—Large crowds are turning out at the revival at White Lick Baptist Church. Rev. Willie Rogers is preaching some sermons that should be long remembered.—Mrs. Jas. Jennings spent a few days at Richmond with her brother whose wife is very low with typhoid fever.—Miss Fannie and Marie Souper have returned home after a lovely visit with their grandmother at Paris Crossing, Ind.—Billy Van Winkle spent last week with his father and sister at this place.—Mr. and Mrs. Jake Lake visited the Dryants Sunday.

ROCKCASTLE COUNTY

Goochland

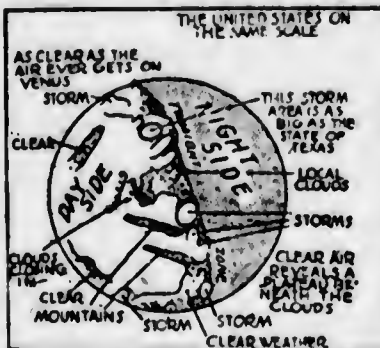

Goochland, Aug. 28.—The drouth has been broken by one of the finest rains of the season, Thursday night and Friday morning of last week, which, I hope, will be a great help to the community at large, but however, corn has been damaged very badly in this section.—We had a good crowd at Sycamore church, both at church and Sunday-school on Sunday. Bro. Freeman, pastor.—Green Carpenter had a bad fall in a well last Friday and broke his neck. The parents have our sympathy.—Circuit Court convenes at McKee today with a full docket of murder and whisky cases to try.—A. P. Gabbard is very poorly with a bad cold and is not able to attend court at present, but will if he gets better and is able to ride out there. He has just arrived home from Laurel and Jackson counties a few days ago and reports a fairly good trade with his line.—There will be a series of meetings commenced next Wednesday by a man from Tennessee, and is planning to hold two weeks at Sycamore. We hope to have a successful meeting with good attendance. We hope to see the time when the people will get right and stay right and make the world better is our desire.—It has been reported that the Sheriff of Rockcastle shot Walt Dunn thru the arm in a moonshine raid the other night and hurt him pretty badly.—A. P. Gabbard is planning to buy a new wagon and doing his own hauling.—Mary B. Gabbard is very busy taking care of her fruit.—Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Fuser are planning on visiting A. P. and Mary B. Gabbard at Goochland on or about September 1st, from Pineville.—A. P. Gabbard stayed over night with Wm. Shearer on Clear Creek last Friday night and enjoyed his visit very much.—Tuck Anglin has the posts set around the Phillis grave-yard.—Grover Gabbard is planning to build a porch to his dwelling house.—Mrs. Phillis, widow of W. A. Phillis is planning to send her children to the Junior Orphans' Home.—Success to The Citizen and its many readers.

VENUS WELL WORTH STUDY

Constellation, at Least to the Eye of the Astronomer, is a Beautiful Sight.

The study of Venus is a branch of astronomy in itself. We are in the habit of thinking of astronomers as men who sit up all night in a dark observatory peering through great telescopes into the dim fastnesses of space. A student of Venus watches by day. At night his object is so brilliant that his eye would be dazzled by her radiance, exactly as it would be by an arc lamp. But in daylight the light of the sky drowns out some of Venus' gleamings. When the sky is clear, color values on her surface can be seen as sharply as they can on other planets at night. Venus is a beautiful sight by day. She has phases and looks like a little moon. Her normal color is yellowish white, but dusky areas of a blue that can frequently be found on her, as well as gleaming creamy areas and white spots on either pole.

It is easy to make a drawing of Venus, but until recently photographing her was impossible. She is at her best when high in the noonday sky. If you have ever taken photographs you know what the effect will be to point your camera at the sun. The plate is instantly fogged. It was long supposed that we would never be able to take pictures of Venus because she is always so near the sun. Many observers tried it and failed.

What the Photograph Reveals.

The honor of finding a means whereby it could be accomplished falls to an American astronomer, Alfred B. Rordame, who has devoted 20 years to the study. Rordame perfected a screen of glass that was opaque to the blue rays from the sky but transparent to the light from Venus herself. One of his photographs, taken in full sunshine against a bright sky, is reproduced here. It is a remarkable achievement in photography as well as astronomy.

May Be New Gold Discovery.

An old gold miner who has just come from the gold claims on the Red Deer river, about 20 miles from Red Deer, says that there are now about a thousand claims staked along the river and there is much talk of big developments. Several samples of gravel have been tested, and fairly good showings obtained, which are considered sufficient to warrant further development, although it is generally felt that the gravel will be more likely to pay through its platinum content, than through the gold recovered from the assays. The gold so far recovered is light in quantity, and assays are being sent to Philadelphia, New Jersey and Spokane for testing.—Montreal Family Herald.

Wanted Proof.

Ann Mary was writing letters when seven-year-old Paul came into the room and wished to sit on her lap. She said she was too busy right then to take him, but if he would sit down on the other side of the table she would love from there.

"Distance lends enchantment," she quoted.

For a few minutes Paul sat there and watched her. Then he said in indignant tones: "You're not doing it at all. I don't see any love letters coming this way."

Undying Songs.

"There are songs," said the musician, "that have never, never died. They go ringing down the ages."

"That is true, sir," Brown replied. "For the past six months and upward I have heard my daughter try to kill two or three each evening, but they never, never die."—London Tit-Bits.

Bones of Dante.

At the close of the Dante celebrations at Ravenna, fragments of the bones of the poet, stolen in 1865 but later recovered, were reunited to the skeleton.

NEWS REVIEW (Continued from Page Two)

virtual suggestions of changes. That the measure would be passed within a few days was conceded, and Senator McCumber said he did not believe the President would veto it, since the conditions that caused Mr. Harding and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to seek delay last year have been met. Mr. McCumber placed emphasis on the points that the annual outlay for payment of the bonus has been reduced to such a figure that the argument of the inability of the treasury to bear the burden no longer holds good, and that the financial condition of the government and the country is quite capable of withstanding the burden which the bonus will impose.

THE administration ship subsidy bill will not be considered further by congress until the December session. This delay has been urged by the Republican leaders, and now President Harding in a letter to Representative Mundell has given his consent. In this letter the President refers to the unfavorable effect of the question of the sale of liquor on American ships on the subsidy legislation, and also refers to opposition which has arisen to the feature of the bill which provides tax exemption to shippers of freight on American ships equal to a percentage of the money paid for such shipments. The fact that it will be difficult to keep a full attendance during the campaign period, he indicates, also enters into the situation.

THERE is some reason to believe that the civil war in China is about over and that the country will be united under one or another of the strong men who have been leading the factions. The conference at Shanghai lead to the prediction that this man will be Dr. Sun Yat-sen, lately head of the southern government. President Li Yuan-hung has said he will resign in favor of Doctor Sun if the parliament approves, and General Wu, the north China military leader, has pledged his support to Sun's policy for reorganization of the government. He also has the backing of the labor organizations, and of large delegations from various cities.

IN a month or so Great Britain, France and Italy are going to hold a conference on the Near East in Venice and they have instructed Greece and the two Turkish governments to send representatives there to present their respective claims. Just to put themselves in the strongest possible position before this meeting, the Turks have begun a great offensive against the Greeks in Asia Minor. Soviet Russia, it is said, is giving aid to the Turkish nationalists, not desiring peace there this fall.

Lots for Your Money
Should Not Tempt You USE
CALUMET
The Economy BAKING POWDER
That's What Millions of Housewives Do

—They know that Good Baking Powder can't be sold for less; that "More for the Money" means bake-day failures, waste of time and money; that Calumet means economy.

The World's Greatest Baking Powder

CHAUTAUQUA VISITORS

Berea Cottage, Chautauqua, N. Y., August 26, 1922

My Dear Editor:

Perhaps a few lines from your correspondent are expected, so I will try to do my duty.

We arrived at Chautauqua Saturday, August 5th, and found a happy family at Berea Cottage—Mrs. Bowen, hostess, and daughter, Isabelle, Mrs. Mary P. Hutchins, Miss Jameson, Miss Hord and Miss Paulison. Mrs. Sherwood, Miss Sherwood, Mrs. Barr and Miss Jessie Moore—had been here during the summer. Mrs. Noble's sister from Chicago arrived the following Wednesday for a ten day's visit. Mr. Burgess came later, and I was delighted to see one of my own "species," for by an overwhelming feminine majority it had been decreed that I was to be a "hewer of wood and drawer of water."

We found a Berea atmosphere at the cottage. Miss Isabelle's loom on the veranda was rumbling. Mrs. Hutchins was practicing on the violin as a pupil of Mr. Sol Marcossion. Miss Jameson was performing difficult creations on the piano for Mr. Ernest Hutchison, and Miss Paulison, in athletic costume, gave us a foretaste of the exhibition soon to be given by the School of Physical Education, under the direction of Professor Savage, of Oberlin College. We felt like mere drones in a beehive of such varied activities.

I am sure that all Bereans will be proud, as we are, that Miss Jameson was given the honor of accompanying Mr. Sol Marcossion, the famous teacher of violin at Chautauqua for twenty years, at his closing recital. We all received "compliments" and applauded loud and long. In Mrs. Hutchins' judgment, she did finer work than the Chautauqua pianist in the same role.

The friends of Miss Paulison will be glad to learn that she has been chosen Physical Director for Women at the Northern Normal and Industrial School, Aberdeen, South Dakota. A fine opportunity. May her enthusiasm not be chilled by the northern winters.

We see Dr. Raymond occasionally, usually in his golf outfit. He has still a boyish enthusiasm for this fine sport. The day after the tournament in which he took part, (ask him the score) he was seen with his fishing tackle, preparing, no doubt, for a day of meditation and watchful waiting for the wily muscullonge. Dr. Raymond has spoken for Berea several times this summer, addressing the Young Women's Club of Chautauqua, the Lions Club of Jamestown and the Kiwanis Club of Buffalo. He preached in Jamestown during July and in Buffalo during August.

The Chautauqua program is so brilliant and varied that I will touch only the high spots.

Pageantry has become a new form of entertainment at Chautauqua under the direction of Prof. H. Augustine Smith, of Boston University. The night after our arrival a Song and Light Festival was held on the lake front. An immense platform had been built on the lake. The Jamestown band played and the Chautauqua chorus sang favorite songs. A gondola with stringed orchestra and decorated canoes circled the stage in illuminated parade, giving a Venetian character to the scene. Lanterns of brilliant hues on shore extending to the amphitheatre made a "Feast of Lanterns" indeed.

Another Lake Pageant and Venetian Night Carnival was shown on the following Tuesday evening. The perfect harvest moon, decorated boats and launches, the electrical illumination, the dancing of the Physical Education students, and the gayly lighted steamer anchored back of the stage, filled with band, chorus and visitors from Jamestown, made this final lake spectacle a brilliant success.

Probably the most successful of the pageants was "The Light of the World," directed by the author, Prof. H. Augustine Smith. The lighting effects and costumes, with splendid acting and fine solo and chorus work, made the rendition very impressive. The rendering of this pageant by our Foundation School last winter, considering their limitations, was very creditable.

The religious side of Chautauqua has not been neglected. Three prominent preachers have occupied the Chautauqua pulpit on succeeding Sundays, and spoke twice each day during the following week. Dr. Shailer Mathews has given two courses of lectures. Prof. Jas. H. Snowden delivered fifteen lectures on "The Psychology of Religion" and "Modern Trends in Religious Thinking." Institutes for Home Missions and Foreign Missions have been held, with Mrs. Helen Harrett Montgomery as a lecturer on India this week. As usual, prominent men have spoken from the Chautauqua platform. Col. Raymond Robins gave two addresses, "The Outlawry of War" and "Is Christianity Essential to Democratic Civilization?" The latter was a marvellous address, full of moral and spiritual power. Roger Babson made three addresses, one on "The Business Outlook," another on "Strikes," and a third on "Investments." The open forum feature after the third address revealed the general public interest in bond and stock investments. Fred B. Smith, fresh from a trip around the world, asserted that the common people without exception want peace, but that the rulers are preparing for war, plead for a League or Association of Nations and called on the Christian Church to take the lead in the preservation of peace. Lorinda in a Sculptor's Studio," and the next Taft gave a very interesting "Hour in a Sculptor's Studio," and the next evening gave an illustrated lecture on "American Sculpture and Sculptors."

Recognition Day was observed August 16th. Sixty of the class of 1922, "The Crusaders," passed thru the Golden Gate between rows of white-clad flower-girls who strewed golden blossoms in their path. They, with members of preceding classes carrying banners, formed a procession to the amphitheatre, where Bishop Thomas Nicholson delivered a remarkable baccalaureate address on "Some Humanitarian Aspects of Education."

The music of Chautauqua, under the ingenious mind of Professor Smith, has had greater variety this season than in recent years. I will speak only of the August program. The choir has done splendid work and the singing of the quartet has been a delight. Mr. Henry Vincent's organ interludes on Sunday afternoons have been wonderful. The sacred song services on Sunday evenings have been attractive and inspiring. The feature of the season was the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, which gave fifteen concerts, closing with a Wagner program on Saturday evening, August 19th.

The final Community Sing and Concert was held last Thursday night. Professor Smith led the audience in a "Hee-Haw" song, and everyone made a "Donkey" of himself. After an evening of neighborliness and good fellowship, the Chautauqua family went out of the amphitheatre singing "There's a Long, Long Trail."

We have not attempted to take in everything here. It would have been a "weariness to the flesh." Tennis, swimming and boating have been our chief recreations. A boat ride to Jamestown was refreshing on a very hot day. We visited the "Gulf" near Westfield and walked down the long, steep "Hog Back" trail. What a wonderful reservoir it would make! I have tried your patience long before this. We expect to tarry here another week before we turn back to Berea. Mr. Burgess left this morning. We all appreciate the privilege of having Berea Cottage as a rest home. There is no better location in Chautauqua and there is no place so ideal for tired Berea workers.

With best regards, I am Very sincerely yours,
Wilbur C. Noble

BARGAINS IN BABIES

Little June had long desired a baby sister, and one day she came rushing home in high excitement.

"Oh, mother; come downtown quickly," she exclaimed. "There are splendid bargains in babies and you can get one while they are cheap."

"What in the world are you talking about, my dear?" the mother asked in astonishment. "Somebody must have been playing a joke on you."

"Truly, truly!" the little girl declared, jumping up and down in eagerness. "Gent big sign about it, on the top of the skating rink. It says, 'This Week Only, Children Half Price.'"

What He Bought

Smith bought a luncheon through an agent as a going concern. After six months he failed, but took his trouble very lightly. Meeting the agent some time later, he said:

"Do you remember selling me a business—a going concern?"

"Yes, of course I do," replied the agent.

"Well," said Smith, "it's gone."

He: Do you think as much of your hubby as you used to before you were married?

She: More. I don't see him so much now, so I have to think of him.

ABSENT MORE NOW

He: Do you think as much of your hubby as you used to before you were married?

She: More. I don't see him so much now, so I have to think of him.

THE ROMANCE OF WORDS

"VILLAIN"

HISTORY, which has a habit of repeating itself, runs true to form in a number of words, as may be seen by the comparison of the changes undergone by "villain" and "villainy." The former, as we have seen first meant a dweller in a village (negus), then a hewer of wood and then a peasant.

Similarly, "villainy" was originally applied to the sort of peasant, known as "villains" because he was attached to the villa or farm. In this sense it had no opprobrious meaning whatever, being practically a synonym for our word "countryman" or "rustic." Then, because it was taken for granted that the peasant would be selfish, selfish, dishonest, and generally of evil moral conditions—referring, of course, only to the peasants of other days—the word began to take on these secondary characteristics, and, at the third step, nothing of the meaning which the etymology suggests survives. The peasant is entirely lost, and the evil moral conditions of him who is called by this name alone remain, for, in its final stage, the epithet may be as freely applied to the peer as to the pauper. In fact, thanks to popular fiction and the even more popular screen, the current visualization of a villain is that of a well-dressed, black-mustached, cigarette-smoking person, bred within the morally cramped confines of the big city rather than raised in the theoretically pure atmosphere of the farm. Thus do words swing around until their meaning points in a direction precisely opposite to that in which they started.

(© by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Anarchy, Pure and Simple, Defiance of Constituted Law and Authority

By HENRY LEE MYERS, U. S. Senator From Montana.

CHIEF

The Herrin massacre was one of the most atrocious assaults that has ever been made in this country on constitutional government, on the constitutional guaranty to every resident of the United States of the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; it is one of the worst acts of defiance to all law and government ever committed in this country. If that sort of thing is to continue and to go unpunished, constitutional government cannot endure. If the time has come when that sort of thing can exist without punishment, without vindication of the law, constitutional government in this country is nearing its end. That act was one of the most horrible and reprehensible that has ever disgraced the annals of this country. It is anarchy pure and simple, ruthless defiance of the federal government and state government, defiance of the federal Constitution and the state constitution, defiance of all constituted law and authority. It substitutes for all thereof the lawless individual will and judgment of the perpetrators of the atrocity.

What is worse than the commission of the crime itself is the fact that the united populace of the county where it occurred appears to approve of it. The populace of Williamson county, Illinois, appears to be unitedly and 100 per cent disloyal to the United States and its constitution. There we have an instance of an entire county being in rebellion against the government of the United States and its Constitution, and against the government of the state in which it is situated and its constitution as well, disloyal to both federal and state governments, with no prospect of anything being done about it.

If this horrible crime and atrocious assault upon government is to go unpunished, the dereliction of the officers who neglect to do their duty will be worse than the commission of the crime.

The belief of the perpetrators of this atrocious crime apparently is that men who want to work and do not belong to their union have no right to live, and that the penalty is death.

Doughnuts

Help Wanted.

"Who's that?" asked Mr. Jagsby, as he peered uneasily at the foot of the stairs and peered up at a figure crouched in white that gazed down upon him more in sorrow than in anger.

"The ghost of a dead love," said Mrs. Jagsby, who was in one of her sentimental moods.

"Oh, those all right," said Mr. Jagsby, cheerfully. "I thought you were the wife. Advance, ghost, and lead me up these confounded steps."

Figuring.

Mudge—What are you thinking about, dear?
Marjorie—I hope bobbed hair won't go out of style before mine grows again.

Back Numbers.

Concerning college football teams, Two oft it comes to pass The man who's halfback in the field is 'way back in his class.

THE BEREA BANK & TRUST COMPANY—SAVINGS DEPARTMENT

IN ACCOUNT WITH John Smith Berea, Ky. No. 1250
THIS BOOK MUST ALWAYS BE PRESENTED WHEN YOU DEPOSIT OR DRAW OUT MONEY
DATE	WITH	DEPOSITS	BALANCE	DATE	WITH	DEPOSITS	BALANCE
Jan 15 22		3,000	3,000
Mar 1 22		100.00	3,100
Apr 1 22		100.00	3,200
May 1 22		100.00	3,300
June 1 22		500	3,800
July 1 22	Interest	244	4,044

MEN who have accumulated wealth nearly always attribute their success to regular saving. Do you realize, as they do, that an independent future is within your reach if you too will save regularly? By adopting now a definite plan of saving you will come year by year nearer to financial independence. After all, there is no better argument for saving than the figures themselves. On opposite page see how money grows.

How a Little Money Grows to Wealth

With 4% Interest Compounded Twice a Year

Weekly Deposits	1 YEAR	2 YEARS	5 YEARS	10 YEARS	15 YEARS	20 YEARS	25 YEARS
$1.00	$1.08	$1.16	$1.25	$1.35	$1.46	$1.58	$1.71
$5.00	$5.40	$5.84	$6.38	$6.97	$7.61	$8.30	$9.04
$10.00	$10.80	$11.68	$12.76	$13.94	$15.22	$16.60	$18.08
$50.00	$54.00	$58.40	$63.80	$69.70	$76.10	$83.00	$90.40
$100.00	$108.00	$116.80	$127.60	$139.40	$152.20	$166.00	$180.80

This is a sample of our Savings and Time Deposit Pass Book.

We pay 4% interest. We pay all taxes on your money.

Our Fall Savings Drive opens September 1st and closes October 10th. Help us make it a success.

BEREA BANK & TRUST CO.

J. W. STEPHENS, President

JOHN F. DEAN, Cashier

Jackson County Fair

Bond-Annville, Kentucky

SEPT. 7, 8, 9, 1922

You are invited to attend the Jackson County Fair, which is the best fair in Eastern Kentucky. We have made arrangements for 10 carloads of solid amusements. Shows of every kind. Ferris wheel, merry-go-round and every kind of pleasure rides, games, etc. Make this your fair. Races of exciting kind. Beautiful floral hall. Live stock of high class. Come on and meet your friends and spend THREE BIG DAYS of pleasure. Four registered hogs and six Barred Rock cockerels given away to those entering the gates. Come early and get it all. You need this outing in this beautiful country among your friends.

Which Daily Paper?

A Question that is Quickly and Readily Answered

The Courier-Journal

Largest Morning Circulation of Any Kentucky Newspaper

Enjoys a nation-wide prestige and reputation. It is essentially a newspaper, intent upon giving news matter first consideration.

Maintains its own news bureaus at Washington and Frankfort. Member of the Associated Press.

By special arrangements we are now able to offer

The Daily Courier-Journal

AND

The Citizen

Both one year by mail for only $5.50

This offer applies to renewals as well as new subscriptions, but only to people living in Kentucky, Tennessee or Indiana. New subscriptions may, if desired, start at a later date, and renewals will date from expiration of present ones.

If you prefer an evening newspaper, you may substitute The Louisville Times for the Courier-Journal.

Send or bring your orders to the office of

The Citizen

Berea

Kentucky